VERY HARD ON HERRING

The herring have invaded Richardson Bay and so have the seagulls. Yesterday and today were like a picnic for the squawking gulls, some of whom feasted so well on herring they could hardly fly. The herring banquet was also shared by fishermen who crowded the Sausalito waterfront to capture the poor fish in buckets and nets. The herring make the inshore migration to spawn, not to feed gulls and fishermen. (Independent-Journal photo by Dave Mayhew)

Johnson Says Let Cuba Keep Water

House Moves Swiftly On Tax Measure

Could Mean Pocketbook Savings Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House moved swiftly today to get the big tax reduction bill to President Lyndon B. Johnson by Feb. 19 or 20.

The benefits, including more dollars in take-home pay, would then begin about the first of next month. (See story, page 9.)

The House agreed to a Senate request to send the measure to a Senate-House conference to adjust numerous differences between the two branches. The conferees plan to start their meetings next Monday.

GROUP NAMED

Named to represent the House at the conference sessions were Reps. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), Cecil R. King (D-Calif.), Thomas J. O'Brien (D-Ill.), Hale Boggs (D-La.), John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.), Thomas B. Curtis (R-Me.) and Victor A. Knox (R-Mich.).

The Senate passed its 11.6-billion dollar version of the legislation yesterday, 77 to 21, well ahead of the original Feb. 11 deadline fixed by its leaders.

Even before the final vote, Johnson was conferring with his Capitol Hill lieutenants about speeding up plans for the Senate-House conference to reconcile the differences between the two chamber's versions.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), who heads the Senate delegation, said it was decided to begin the conference next Monday instead of Feb. 17 as planned earlier.

STARTS MONDAY

He said that the conferees could meet only on Monday and Tuesday next week, since Republicans will be leaving town for Lincoln Day speeches.

But he said the explanation of what changes the Senate made in the 11.1 billion-dollar version passed by the House would be covered in those two days, so that voting can start when the conference reconvenes on Feb. 17.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), another conferee, said that under this schedule the Senate-House group should be able to come up with a compromise bill by Feb. 18 or 19. A final vote could come one day later.

If this schedule is met, the benefits of the bill should start flowing about March 1. The Senate version provides that the reduction in wage and salary withholding to reflect the cuts in income tax rates shall begin one week after the bill is signed.

Base To Cut Back On Help

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — The United States is appealing to Allied governments to join in tightening an economic noose around Cuba following President Lyndon B. Johnson's decision to separate the Guantanamo naval base completely from the Cuban economy and water supply.

Johnson in effect told Cuba to keep its water.

SERIES OF TALKS

The presidential decision was announced by the State Department last night after a day-long series of conferences on how the United States should react to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's action Thursday in cutting the fresh water supply to the naval base.

At the same time a White House statement warned of the dangers of "further provocations by Castro" and declared that the prospects "should be carefully weighed by all nations."

RECKLESS CONDUCT

This was taken to include a prod to the Kremlin to consider where Soviet support of the Cuban regime may be leading.

"The reckless and irresponsible conduct of the Cuban government remains a constant threat to the peace of this hemisphere," the White House said.

It added that "these matters" will be discussed with other Western Hemisphere nations in the Organization of American

STEALS BOAT

Vallejo Man, 22, Defects To Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — Denys Lee Kirby, 22, a fisherman from Vallejo, sailed a stolen Florida shrimp boat into Havana Harbor last night and announced he wanted to begin a new life under the Communist regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

Kirby talked with Castro soon after arriving here from Stock Island, near Key West, Fla., and told the Cuban premier he had taken the boat to Cuba in retaliation for the U.S. government's seizure of four Cuban fishing vessels last Sunday.

"I wanted to come to Cuba to live and work in a Cuban fishing fleet," Kirby told an impromptu dockside news conference after being questioned by Castro and Interior Minister Maj. Ramiro Valdez.

"Over here my occupation is better appreciated than in the States," he said. "Also, people here are considered equal. I don't like the American way of life where the lives of the common people are not appreciated."

Castro made an unexpected appearance while the news conference was going on and announced that the boat, the 25-ton Johnny Reb, would be returned to its owner in the United States.

(In Key West, owner Charles Griffin Jr. of Savannah, Ga., said he hoped to get the boat back but the loss was insured. He said he did not know Kirby and learned of the boat's arrival in Havana from news reports. "There's nothing to stealing it," he said. "All you have to do is press the starter button and that's it.")

Salary Considerations —'Only Once A Year'

Salaries of Marin county employees should be carefully studied and changed only once a year, the County Personnel Commission decided yesterday.

At present, the major salary decision is made by the board of supervisors in June, during discussions of the budget, but a separate session is held in January to handle "inequities."

Commissioner Margaret Lucas commented that there was probably not enough staff time in the county administrator's office to adequately review salaries in detail more than once a year. She added that in private industry, salary reviews often come less often than that.

Personnel Director Robert D. Elliot commented that during the past 18 months, the salary situation in the county has improved, but said that until now he has been doing a "repair job."

He said in the future he could visualize emergency situations which might call for review in January to prevent the mass exodus of workers from a department, but said these would be few and far between.

The commission also discussed a proposed joint meeting, asked by the board of supervisors. Chairman Julius H. Selinger said he had not intended to stir up or anger the board at the previous meeting when he complained that the commission seemed to have nothing to do.

But, he said, he himself was angry and frustrated. He said the commission, on its own initiative, could, for instance, have made an investigation into

Traffic Citations Issued In 'Area Of Discretion'

By PHIL FRADKIN

There is an "area of discretion" within which California Highway Patrol officers can decide whether to issue a traffic violation citation to an ordinary citizen.

There is a wider area of discretion for state legislators, clergymen, the press, and off-duty officers.

Capt. Theodore F. Parnow of the Marin County Office of the California Highway Patrol, in answer to recent criticism of "favoritism" by county law enforcement officers, said today:

"The average officer would give a break to a legislator, clergyman, a member of the press, or another officer."

One highway patrol officer, in explaining why he doesn't tag state legislators who have violated the vehicle code, asked, "Why bite the hand that feeds you?"

Parnow said clergymen were not cited except for a "flagrant violation" by most officers because they might suffer embarassment when their congregations found out they had broken a law.

The press, he said, is given "breaks" because of familiarity. Also a photographer or reporter might be on the way to an accident scene to do his job.

The official policy, Parnow said, "is to cite city, county and state cars the same as anybody else." There are no special privileges for the military, he said.

The area of discretion for the ordinary citizen, Parnow said, lies within each officer's judgment. A few miles over the speed limit may be excused in some areas where the danger is not so great, he said.

Parnow said that when a highway patrol officer goes to the county courthouse, and there is no space in the free parking lot for county employees, "it is not practical for the officer to put money in the meters."

The officer may be required to be in court for two hours or more. A highway patrol officer, as distinguished from the ordinary citizen, does not get any advance notice to appear in court, Parnow said.

Parnow said there were areas of discretion because "there would be tremendous public resentment if the laws were enforced to a "T."

He concluded, "I have one official answer. The law applies to everyone and must applied with discretion."

I-J Wins Award For Drive Against Closed Meetings

Because of its reporting and editorials calling attention to the series of closed meetings held by Mill Valley city councilmen last year, the Independent-Journal yesterday received a community service award from the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

It was one of three awards for the paper presented at the association's 76th annual convention at Coronado, San Diego county, California. Gov. Edmund G. Brown presented the awards.

The I-J won an honorable mention for its reporting of meetings held in violation of the Ralph M. Brown act which prohibits closed sessions of public bodies. Members of the Mill Valley council had held meetings in San Francisco last year in the office of Councilman George D. Monardo.

The I-J also took honorable mention for newspaper promotion and an honorable mention for its editorial page.

At the publisher's convention today, I-J Managing Editor Jack Craemer was elected first vice president of the association. Newton Wallace, publisher of the Winters Express in Yolo County was elected president.

No New Leads Found In Prison Stabbings

San Quentin Prison officials today reported no new leads in the stabbings yesterday of three inmates in the main exercise yard.

No weapon has been recovered, Associate Warden Dale Frady said. Condition of the victims, Louis J. Flores, 23, convicted of robbery, Frank P. Padilla, 27, auto theft, and Alex Z. Lechuga, 24, possession of marijuana, remained good in the prison hospital today.

NAtional TRAGEDY AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House is no exception to the Telephone Co.'s persistent campaign to eliminate the familiar names in phone numbers and replace them with colorless digits.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger announced yesterday the executive mansion's number, NAtional 8-1414 which it has held for 11 years will be changed to the prosaic 456-1414 today.

The switch had been under consideration by the Telephone Co. for some time, Salinger said. He refused to comment about the all-number exchange.

Inmate Stabbed Four Times, In Poor Shape

John Joseph Swesey, 25, an inmate at San Quentin Prison was in critical condition at the prison hospital today after he was stabbed by an unknown assailant using a stiletto.

Associate Warden Dale Frady said Swesey, who arrived at the prison Nov. 4 with a maximum five-year term for auto theft, was stabbed twice in front on either side beneath the rib cage and twice in the lower right portion of his back.

The stabbing took place at 11 a.m. in the southeast corner of the upper exercise yard. Officials found a home-made knife with a six-inch blade and a home-made stiletto with an eight-inch blade, which evidently inflicted the wounds. Frady said there did not appear to be any connection between this stabbing and the stabbing yesterday.

Russians Win Olympic Hockey

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Russia won the Olympic Hockey tournament—and its 11th gold medal of the Winter games—by defeating Canada 3-2 today on a tie-breaking goal by Veniamn Alexandrov in the third period.

The victory gave the Russians a 7-9 record and eliminated both Canada and Czechoslovakia the two teams which had remained in contention.

The United States brought its record to 2-5 by beating Switzerland 7-3.

Barricade Up Again To Block Seashore Road

The chain barricade is up again today to block the road to the Limantour Spit in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Local residents have placed the chain across Drake Summit Road, which provides access to the spit, contending that it is a private road that should not be open to public traffic.

Residents blocked the road last weekend after a surge of visitors the previous weekend.

The chain will also be up tomorrow, reported Mrs. James W. Lockhart, of Drake Summit Road. The Lockharts claim the portion of the road across their property is private and should not be used to provide access to the national seashore.

Ghana Launches Anti-U.S. Drive; Expels 5 Teachers

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI)—Ghana announced today after a morning of wild anti-student demonstrations at Ghana University it is expelling seven persons, including five American teachers and an Anglican clergyman for "subversive activities prejudicial to the state."

One of them, Louis H. Schuster, 55, of Nashville, Tenn., a Negro, professor in business management at the university of Ghana since last November, arrived in Rome today and said the expulsions were part of the current anti-American campaign in Ghana.

Schuster said he believed Ghana president Kwame Nkrumah was determined to convert Ghana into a Communist state. He said anti-American demonstrations in Ghana were the start of a drive by "some people who have political ambitions" . . . to destroy the image of America as the benefactor of the peopie of Africa."

The government announcement followed a wild rampage through the university buildings this morning by 2,000 persons led by agitators of Nkrumah's Convention Peoples Party who sparked anti-American demonstrations in Ghana earlier this week. The university has 1,400 students.

The CPP became Ghana's only political party last week when a national referendum voted 99.99 per cent in favor of setting up this West African republic as a one-party socialist state under Nkrumah's leadership.

$50,000 Awarded In Injury

A Marin Superior Court jury last night awarded $50,000 for permanent injuries suffered by a 7-year-old girl in a head-on auto collision on Golden Gate Bridge July 16, 1962.

The family of La Verne Berry of San Francisco had sued Mrs. Grace Meeker Barlow of Sebastopol for the injuries. According to testimony during the six-day trial, the girl will have a deformed back and permanent lung damage because of the crash.

A $535,000 lawsuit was filed by two families against Mrs. Barlow. In addition to the money awarded for La Verne Berry, the jury granted $3,000 to 9-year-old Verna Jean Berry, $5,331 to their father, Willie J. Berry, $5,000 to Joe D. Henderson and $1,500 to his 4-year-old daughter, Veronica Ann, also of San Francisco.

The jury returned a 9-3 verdict in the court of Judge N. Charles Brusatori after deliberation for nearly 10 hours.

$15,000 Burglary Suspect Is Jailed

A third suspect in the $15,000 jewelry and fur burglary of a Belvedere home last June 15 was in Marin County jail today on felony charges of burglary and of receiving stolen goods.

Theodore Harry Katros, 45, ship's steward and cook, of Southgate, Los Angeles County, was arrested Thursday by the Los Angeles District Attorney's office. He was returned to Marin County last night by Belvedere Police Chief William Woodington.

Katros is charged in the breakin of the home of Barney Norwitt, 2 Golden Gate Avenue, in which loot including five furs of mink, beaver and martin were taken. A pearl necklace also was taken, police said.

Joseph Correnti, 36, of 106 Granada Drive, Corte Madera, and Vincent Patrick Farina, 24, San Francisco, were arrested in connection with the burglary shortly after the breakin. Correnti was convicted and is serving six-months sentence in Marin County jail.

Farina was freed July 5 because evidence was insufficient to link him with the burglary.

Chief Woodington said Katros has served terms for armed robbery in both Sing Sing Prison, New York, and Massachusettes State Prison. Bail yesterday was set at $5,250.

Wisconsin Pays Tribute To Naturalist Muir

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin paid tribute today to the memory of John Muir, a famed American naturalist who grew up in this state. (Muir was the naturalist for whom Muir Wood National Park was named).

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski headed state and federal officials in impressive ceremonies in memory of Muir, who was born in Scotland in 1838. When he was 11, his parents moved to the wilderness area where Portage, Wis. now is located. Muir worked his way throught the University of Wisconsin and upon leaving the school a century ago, said: "I am leaving Wisconsin University for the University of Wilderness."

With that, he walked from Wisconsin to the Gulf of Mexico, on to California and north to Alaska.

Later he became a hiking companion of President Theodore Roosevelt and played a major role in awakening the government to the need for forest conservation.

The unveiling of the design of a postage stamp and dedication of a wooded seven-acre park on the campus paid tribute to Muir, oft referred to as the father of the American national park system. He died in 1914.

The five-cent commemorative stamp will be issued April 29 in Martinez, where Muir spent the last days of his life. The stamp will go on sale the next day.

States and with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

Johnson ordered the Defense Department to make Guantanamo self-sufficient.

With this order, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the statement said, issued instructions to:

"Assure the base control over its own water supply both by conversion of sea water to fresh water and by the transportation of water by ship.

"Reduce the employment of Cuban personnel who are subject to the control of the Cuban government and whose wages contribute to its foreign exchange."

Asked if the Cuban water would be used if Castro turned it back on, a Defense Department spokesman said, "No."

President and Mrs. Johnson flew to Johnson City last night where Johnson received reports by telephone and by teletype on the Cuba-Guantanamo situation and U.S. efforts to keep the U.S. naval base free of harassment from Castro.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Johnson received his "normal intelligence briefing" via White House communications channels to keep up with developments which have followed Castro's cut off of water to the Guantanamo base.

On the Cuba matter, Johnson was described as determined to prevent Castro from having another chance to clamp a monkeywrench on Guantanamo's water lines or other facilities.

Johnson flew to Texas for a weekend at his ranch and the funeral tomorrow of one of his closest friends, Mrs. Jesse C. Kellam of Austin.

Prowler Put On Probation

Vincent John Frank, 22, arrested as a Tamalpais Valley prowler, has been put on three years probation on condition that he seek psychiatric treatment.

Frank, of 408 Pine Street, Tamalpais Valley, was arrested Jan. 4 after he admitted entering homes in the area and frightening women on different occasions since last December. He explained that he starts prowling after he has been drinking alone.

"You didn't actually do anything to anybody," Judge Joseph G. Wilson told Frank in Marin Municipal Court, "but you frightened everybody . . . This kind of thing leads to more serious matters."

Brothers On Parole Jailed For Attack

Two brothers on parole from San Quentin Prison were jailed today on charges of attacking a 16-year-old Corte Madera boy with knives outside a San Rafael restaurant.

Billie Joe Miller, 16, of 1595 Redwood Highway, Corte Madera, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for a deep, five-inch-long gash on his left arm.

Held in jail without bail were Leroy Patrick Grundhauser, 25, of 1533 Fourth Street, San Rafael, and Richard John Grundhauser, 28, of 8 Taylor Street, San Rafael.

San Rafael Police Officers Gary Walter and Bart Stinson said Miller and a friend, Joseph A. Montero, 17, of 825 Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda, were seated at the Griddle, Fourth Street and Lincoln Avenue shortly after midnight when the Grundhauser brothers came into the restaurant.

The brothers had been drinking, police said, and one of them stumbled, apparently prompting a remark from one of the youths. This led to an argument, and all four went outside where, according to the two boys, the Grundhausers pulled knives, one of them slashing Miller.

Montero took Miller to the hospital, where police were called, and the Grundhausers were later arrested in the restaurant. Two small knives were taken from the brothers. In addition to charges of being drunk and assault with deadly weapons, Leroy Grundhauser was charged with resisting arrest.

The brothers are on parole for convictions of burglary, police said.

Christopher Not Now Planning Bid For Senate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher says "I'm not being coy about the decision but, as of now, I don't think I intend to be a candidate" for the U. S. Senate.

Christopher recently said he was considering running for the Republican nomination for the Senate seat now held by Clair Engle, Red Bluff Democrat.

Conceding that "I know the situation can change," Christopher said yesterday "I have no enthusiasm for the job at this time."

Christopher said he intends to campaign actively in California for New York Gov. Nelson Rockerfeller in his campaign for the GOP Presidential nomination.

Driver Cleared In Car Fatality

Mrs. Katherine M. Sheridan, 60, of Palo Alto, owner of two Sausalito antique shops has been cleared of blame for a traffic accident that left one pedestrian dead, three others injured and four cars damaged in San Francisco Wednesday.

The accident was caused by a defective master brake cylinder in Mrs. Sheridan's car, the district attorney's office in San Francisco reported. This was a condition she could not have known about, the report said.

Last Sunday Mrs. Sheridan's car was sideswiped in a fatal accident along Bridgeway in Sausalito. She is the owner of Le Grand Tour at 575 Bridgeway and K. Sheridan Antiques at 439 Bridgeway.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Happy Ending In Story-Book Romance

MADRID (UPI) — Princess Irene of the Netherlands, smiling broadly and holding hands with the prince she plans to marry, rushed happily today into the embrace with her father, Prince Bernhard.

Princess

The reunion—an apparent happy ending to one of the great royal romantic mysteries of the decade—took place before hundreds of officials and reporters at Madrin airport, where Bernhard had flown to pick up his daughter and take her home.

Only an hour earlier, the Dutch government had confirmed that Irene, 24, whose love life and conversion to Roman Catholicism stirred a crisis in Holland, would marry Prince Hugo de Bourbon Parma, a blueblood and French Air Force officer nine years her senior.

Prince

At the same time she announces her engagement, the princess was expected to renounce her rights as second in line of succession to the throne of the House of Orange. No member of the house has been a Catholic for more than 400 years.

The reunion had all the elements of a story-book romance. When Bernhard left the Hague this morning, there still was no solid indication whether Irene would marry or whether, as her mother Queen Juliana announced earlier this week, the engagement was off.

Kennedy Subpoenaed In Hoffa Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, accused of waging a "personal vendetta" against Teamster President James R. Hoffa, has been subpoenaed to testify at Hoffa's jury tampering trial, but it was up to the judge to decide whether Kennedy would appear.

Defense attorneys issued subpoenaes for Kennedy, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and four other federal officials as the third week of the trial ended.

Trial Judge Frank Wilson said, however, the government officials would not be required to respond to the subpoenaes "until further orders by the court" and tentatively set a hearing on the matter Monday morning.

Genser Vehicles Ouster Is Upheld

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A State Personnel Board hearing Feb. 20-21 in San Francisco will decide whether to accept a hearing officer's recommendation Friday to uphold the dismissals of former DMV officials William P. Scanland and Albert J. Veglia.

Yesterday the board followed the advice of Hearing Officer Robert L. Hill that the dismissal of another former DMV official, Morris Genser, be upheld.

The dismissals came after a long investigation which started when a Los Angeles County Grand Jury probed suspected illegal sales practices by Los Angeles area auto dealers.

Beckwith Is Facing Second Trial

JACKSON, Miss (UPI) — Byron De La Beckwith faced from a jail cell today the prospect of another trial this spring in the murder of Negro leader Medgar Evers.

His first trial ended yesterday when the jury of 12 white men reported they were hopelessly deadlocked and Judge Leon Hendrick declared a mistrial.

A date for the second trial will be set March 23 but the next move will be an attempt to free Beckwith under bond.

Shots At Negro Home

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—Rifle shots were fired into the home of a Negro leader and the home of another Negro was severely damaged by fire last night, police said. No one was reported hurt.

Officers said the .30-caliber rifle shots struck the home of Dr. Robert B. Hayling, who was away at the time. One shot killed Hayling's boxer dog.

At around the same time, about midnight, Bunion Robinson, who lives near Hayling, said he saw a car speeding by his house. Seconds later, Robinson said, his house was on fire.

Nazi Trial Recess

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —The trial of 21 men charged with helping to run the Auschwitz death camp is in recess until Feb. 17 to avoid conflicts with the annual "Mardi Gras" carnival.

The Frankfurt City Hall, where the trial is being held, is traditionally the scene of carnival revelry on Shrove Tuesday, the day before Lent begins.

Kennedys Together

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Three members of the Kennedy family, the widow of President John F. Kennedy and her two brothers-in-law, have flown into Palm Beach, Fla., to spend the weekend with the head of the family, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

Two Secret Service men accompanied Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) on the flight south by commercial airliner.

Un And Around

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth left her bed at King Edward VII Hospital yesterday for the first time since her appendix was removed Tuesday, and today she was reported "feeling much better and very cheerful." The 63-year-old Queen Mother probably will go home next week.

Asks Name Change

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Former Oklahoma football coach Charles Burnham Wilkinson has asked District Court to change his name to one already familiar to football fans —Bud Wilkinson. Wilkinson is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Ruby Trial Rules

DALLAS (UPI)—All but a few seats in Judge Joe B. Brown's criminal district courtroom will be reserved for the press for the trial of Jack Ruby. The trial will not be televised, broadcast or photographed.

Brown will hold a change of venue hearing Monday and if the trial is not ordered out of Dallas, it will start Feb. 17.

Playwright Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Vaudeville comedian Harry Delf, 71, who also was a playwright, died yesterday. Delf appeared in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" in 1926 and in other Broadway shows. He authored "The Family Upstairs" and several other plays.

Unruh School Districts Plan Hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh's proposal to consolidate most of California's school districts had more opposition today—from the California Assn. of School Administrators.

Dr. James Corson, executive secretary of the association, joined Superintendent of Public Instruction Maxwell Rafferty yesterday in opposing the school reorganization plan.

Corson and Rafferty issued a statement urging the legislature to delay action until next year, when an association committee on school reform makes a report.

Unruh proposed to reduce the number of school districts from 1,585 to 170 countywide districts.

Corson and Rafferty said Unruh's plan showed "apparent disregard" for a 1959 law providing for voluntary unification of districts, permitting local voters to decide.

Cashmere wool — the soft winter underfleece of a semi-wild Asian goat — is never shorn. The goat's wool is painstakingly plucked out by hand during its spring molt.

BAKER BACK — Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, arrived at Baltimore's Friendship Airport last night en route to Washington. He was traveling under an assumed name from San Juan, Puerto Rico, and picked up his own bags at the luggage counter. He declined to comment on whether he would testify before the Senate group investigating his financial dealings. (AP Wirephoto)

Mosk: Rumford Repeal Try 'A Segregation Initiative'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk says the initiative to repeal the Rumford Act is "a segregation initiative."

Mosk's attack, in an address prepared for delivery to the County Conference on Human Relations today, followed by less than a day another by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Said Mosk:

"The California Real Estate Assn. is today attempting to maintain housing segregation through a constitutional amendment, only six months after the legislature wisely passed a law to free our state of this blight.

"The association wishes to place the constitution of this great state on the side of segregation."

The real estate group is one of the sponsors of the initiative to repeal the act which prohibits discrimination in the sale and rental of most housing in California because of race, religion or national origin.

In Coronado, yesterday, Brown told delegates to the 76th annual California Newspaper Publishers Assn. convention that the state's newspapers could greatly influence the outcome of the initiative.

"This year we face a battle over the Rumford Act that may well be charged with bitterness and emotion," Brown said. "Unless we force that battle onto rational grounds, it may well set back our efforts to achieve social justice by many years."

Oroville Dam Ruckus

OROVILLE (AP)—The ruckus over the Oroville Dam construction was blamed yesterday on a "junior engineer" who did not know of the existence of a test area where material below specifications was intentionally being used.

The Department of Water Resources admitted during an inspection tour for newsmen that the material was being used, but they described this as "usual" and said it had been planned that way all along.

Indeed yes! Every Forest Park home has one

What's a "mud room"?

It's a separate room with a separate entry off the garage which your muddy-footed offspring can gleefully mess up when they come home from a busy day of play. Saves wear and tear on carpeting and furniture. And Momma.

The idea came from you. More accurately: from the Women's Congress on Housing, Washington, D.C., who studied thousands of "most wanted features" in modern architecture. They tell us a "mud room" is what you want, M'Lady. So here it is.

But it's only one of the exclusive features designed into your new Forest Park home. Just look at these you've missed:

FABULOUS NEW FLOOR PLAN includes new features which (until now) you've only hoped for. Your "command center" kitchen gives you full-circle visual home control. There's an exhibit space in the entrance gallery. A snack bar. A family room that's accessible to kitchen, dining or patio. A living room that converts to a 38-foot entertainment area. A master bedroom suite with M'Lady's powder room. And closets, closets, closets!

LUXURY APPOINTMENTS THROUGHOUT. You'll be delighted with walnut finished cabinets—ceramic tile baths—Tappan double oven and rotisserie—dishwasher and garbage disposal—luminous kitchen ceiling—nylon carpets in living, dining, four bedrooms—wood paneling in living and dining rooms. All completely color-coordinated inside and out for harmony and beauty.

CLOSE TO SCHOOLS, SHOPPING, CHURCHES. All living needs are within minutes of your home.

ATTRACTIVELY PRICED. 8 rooms: 2 baths, living room, dining area, family room, 4 bedrooms, 2-car garage (with ample room for shop and extra storage) and large lot (average 105' x 75'). Your cost: $27,700., with 5¾% loans, 30 years, to qualified buyers.

ASK ABOUT OUR "TRADE-UP" PLAN. Use your old house as a down payment. We'll sell it in 60 days or buy it at a pre-agreed net price. No waiting. No uncertainty. Select your new Forest Park home tomorrow with the knowledge that needed funds will be available.

FURNISHED MODEL OPEN DAILY 10 TO 5—SUNDAYS 12 TO DUSK

EASY TO FIND. Left off Highway 101 at South Novato Blvd. One mile to Sunset Parkway. Left again ½ mile to furnished Model Home at #725.

'A BRIGHT NEW LOOK'

"Spring is a Bright New Look" was the theme as Mrs. Arnold J. Piatti trod the runway for St. Patrick's Guild of Larkspur at its luncheon and show at the Meadow Club yesterday. Spring fashions were accompanied by springy weather for the church-women's event. (Independent-Journal photo)

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Mrs. Hendrickson Gives Tea For Future Daughter-in-Law

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Mrs. J. Norman Hendrickson of Greenbrae presented her future daughter-in-law, Laura Sauvebelle-Bouchet, at a tea today. The international romance of the John Hendricksons' son, Jack, and Laura, daughter of Doctor and the late Madame Auguste Sauvebelle-Bouchet of Paris, began in Spain.

Laura, a graduate of the Sorbonne and Maurice Revel University in Paris, and Jack who traveled and studied in Europe for two years, first met at the University of Valencia. The romance continued when the young man visited the Sauvebelle-Bouchet family at the country home in Quimper, Brittany.

Laura, an accomplished linguist and interpreter, has one sister, Kathleen, who is studying in London.

Jack has a sister, Mary Jo Hendrickson. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended Denver University and the University of San Francisco before studying in Europe.

The Hendricksons' hilltop home was filled with colorful spring flowers which also centered the tea table. Pouring were Mrs. Hendrickson's sisters, Mrs. A. M. Metheny of Oakland and Mrs. O. B. Witt of Hillsborough.

Laura and Jack will exchange nuptial vows at St. Dominic's Church in San Francisco February 29. The young couple will reside in San Francisco while Jack completes his studies at San Francisco State College.

SEVERAL LUNCHEONS will follow the Marin Symphony Concert preview Wednesday at the Meadow Club. Because it is Lincoln's Birthday and a school holiday for many of the younger set, there will be a good attendance by daughters and sons of auxiliary members.

Mrs. Maurice Salomon, president of the auxiliary, will be a luncheon hostess. With her will be her daughter, Barbara, and the latter's friend, Louise Nemschoff, also Mrs. Edward Sargent. At luncheon with Mrs. William Pemberton will be her son, Larry, her mother, Mrs. Robert A. Hornby of San Francisco and her aunt, Mrs. H. A. Manis of Walnut Creek.

Mrs. Walter M. Baird, president of the Symphony Guild, will have as her honor guest Philip Ienni, composer, conductor and assistant professor of music at Dominican College, who will be the speaker at the preview. The concert will be held February 16 at 8 p.m. at Novato High School. Other guests of Mrs. Baird will be Mesdames Cloyd Kimball, Robert L. Schultz, Andrew S. Halley, Harrison Dibblee Jr., Frank L. Paganini, James Cockburn and Eugene Burns.

Mrs. J. Benton Tulley will be joined at luncheon by Mesdames Charles Tacchi and A. L. Stewart. Mrs. Charles P. Davies has invited Mesdames Gordon Lathers and Richard Gump for luncheon.

Mrs. M. J. Mackby, chairman of the concert previews, will have as her luncheon guests Mesdames John Wolfe, Walter Griesback, H. Duff Henderson, J. P. McFarland and John Bissinger.

Mrs. Eugene Yates, who will introduce the concert preview speaker, will be joined at luncheon by Mesdames Clayton Claassen, William Mueller, Roane T. Sias and Richard S. Taylor. Mrs. Yates' mother, Mrs. Edward Lynch of San Francisco, will have as her luncheon guests, Mesdames Charles D. Hickox and Charles McDaniels.

DR. MARY W. HARRIS is in Terra Linda Hospital where she is being treated for painful arthritis. She is allowed to receive visitors and is delighted with the get-well messages she has received.

Mishaps Kill Thousands

Accidents are responsible for the loss of about 11,000 lives a year among American women, 15 to 64 years of age, safety experts report.

Only the cardiovascular diseases and cancer exact a greater toll. The experts are concerned because the recent accident record for women at these ages shows little improvement from year to year.

Effects Of Smoking Told By Physician

By DOROTHY NEWELL

"There is twice as much chance of getting coronary artery disease and 50 per cent of those suffering heart attacks are among those who are heavy smokers," Dr. E. A. McCrum, president of the Marin County Heart Assn., said yesterday.

Dr. McCrum was speaking before the Novato Branch of the Heart Assn. at a meeting of area captains and chairmen at Tomahawk Lodge, Novato.

THE RATE OF the heart beat is affected by smoking cigarettes which makes the heart inefficient and helps to build up fatty tissue and cholesterol in the blood vessels, he said.

He stated that cigarette smoking causes spasms of the blood vessels and affects circulation, which is characteristic of the disease.

The body temperature is shown to drop immediately in a person with a cardiovascular disease when they smoke a cigarette, he said.

BECAUSE OF the effect of cigarette smoking on the lungs, Dr. McCrum gave statistics on lung cancer also—40,000 persons a year die of cancer of the lung, and if persons now youngsters do not stop smoking, 70,000 youngsters of today will die of cancer before they reach the age of 65.

The inter-agency council of Marin County which has representatives from the cancer, medical, tuberculosis, health, and Parent-Teacher Assn., Supt. of Schools and Heart Assn. are working on an anti-smoking program with various organizations. They will work with lawyers to enforce laws in smoking, letters are being sent to local hospitals to remove cigarette machines from the buildings and speakers will be available for programs in the schools.

THE MAIN CONCERN is for the youngsters, but psychological motives must be studied rather than scare the young people, said Dr. McCrum. "We must find the reasons why they are smoking, and how they got "hooked," he said.

"If I had known the dangers of smoking I am sure I would never have started," Dr. McCrum said. However, Dr. McCrum said he has not smoked cigarettes for the past two years.

He suggested to the area captains, of the Novato Heart Assn. that they might ask their husbands for a check—possibly for a trip to Hawaii, as an incentive to quit smoking.

AND FOR THOSE who are afraid of a weight problem, weight reducing classes are being formed to help control weight if one is eating more since giving up the cigarette habit.

Among those attending the meeting yesterday were Mrs. Henry Chapman, community chairman for the Novato branch of the Heart Assn., and Mrs. Al Neri, Heart Sunday chairman.

Clubs To Outline April Conclave

Mrs. Arthur Luchetti of Corte Madera, program chairman of Golden Gate District, California Federation of Women's Clubs will introduce Mrs. Elizabeth Youh of the Northern California Service League, who will speak on "Rehabilitation of First Offenders" Monday at the Community Methodist Church, Millbrae, starting at 10 a.m.

The outline of the Eighth Convention to be held at the Edgewater Inn, in Corte Madera on April 15, 16 will be given. The Larkspur Women's Club will be hostess club.

The Productive Years

About 85 million persons in the United States — almost 45 per cent of the population—are in the age range from 25 to 64 years, report statisticians.

This large segment of the population is expected to exceed 90 million by 1970 and reach 106 million in 1980. The years 25 to 64 represent the period of maximum productivity and family responsibilities, the statisticians noted.

Sidelights Interesting At Legislature's Opening

WHEN THE 1964 budget session of the state legislature opened formally in Sacramento Monday, there were some interesting sidelights.

The spectators gallery of the assembly chamber (where both the assembly and the senate gather together to receive the budget from the governor) has only 200 public seats, minus those occupied by three television cameras and their operators, moved in specially for the event.

Unlike the practice of some former years, no standees were allowed in the gallery Monday.

So our legislative representatives began their study of the governor's proposal for spending 3.6 billion dollars of taxpayers' money with only about 200 representatives of the general public on hand, representing 18 million or so Californians who must foot the bill.

Fortunately, there are more press representatives covering this session than any previous one, presumably bringing eye-witness accounts of the proceedings to more readers than ever before. TV and radio are in evidence but the nature of their coverage is necessarily highly superficial. They do well if they whet the appetite of viewers for more details which they can get only from newspapers.

THE OPENING OF the session reminds one of the first day back at the fraternity house after summer vacation. Everyone is preoccupied with exchange of greetings and exchange of information about over-the-vacation happenings. It has been more than six months since the last session of the legislature adjourned.

Among former legislators on hand for the reunion was Ralph M. Brown, whose place in California history was secured when his anti-secrecy law was enacted years ago. Brown now is an appellate court judge in Fresno. He swore in the speaker and other assembly officers Monday.

Ralph Brown seemed to suffer a touch of nostalgia; he has been known to tell intimates that he hated to leave the legislature but he couldn't afford to stay longer. Being away from his law practice cost him heavily. He was offered the appellate judgeship and took it mainly for financial reasons.

SPEAKER JESSE Unruh, regarded by many as the most politically powerful and at times the most ruthless figure on the contemporary state scene, was the subject of considerable comment.

He is no longer "Big Daddy," physically. Except for a wrinkled face, he looks far more youthful and light of step than formerly.

At his top weight, he must have pushed the scales to 300, judging by appearances. Now he is supposed to be down to 195 and he looks even slimmer.

The re-election of Unruh as speaker was a wonder to behold. He unquestionably is disliked and disapproved by a majority of assemblymen.

But there was no other candidate for the job. All the Democrats save one voted for him. All the Republicans refrained from voting at all.

When a man achieves such power that he totally eliminates opposition despite majority disapproval, it can't be good no matter how benevolently the power is used.

It is a good bet that some legislators suffered a little indigestion as the result of self-disgust. And they deserved to.

One cannot help thinking that all this is one of the first fruits of the Democratic party drive of a few years back to "restore party responsibility" in our state.

Remember Washington's Farewell address? He warned against the evils of political parties and expressed the hope that they would not come to be in this nation.

IN THE PRESS CORPS, Marin's assemblyman, Bill Bagley, has the reputation of being something of a hit-run torpedo boat occasionally attacking the power of the Unruh navy.

Bagley may well be the man Unruh likes the least among the 79 members (there is one vacancy) of the assembly right now.

Bagley tells intimates that there isn't really much Republicans can do in the present one-party legislature in the way of offering a constructive program with any chance of serious attention, much less adoption. The Democratic power just will not permit anything constructive by Republicans.

All one can do, he says, is throw darts at vulnerable points in the armor of the otherwise invulnerable force that presently controls the legislative machinery.

One veteran capitol correspondent describes Bagley as "a thorn in Unruh's side" and indicates that he gets much secret approval.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Mrs. Mercia Leton Kahn, until recently a Larkspur resident, new manager of an important Social Security (including Marin). Her splendid work in this field for a number of years richly deserves the promotion.

A BOUQUET to the San Rafael Elementary School District, with a nice nosegay to the Novato City Council for decision to keep the polls open until 8 p.m. in the school bond election Feb. 18, and for Novato's city election April 14. This gives commuters more time to vote—and let's hope they do.

BOUQUETS to Novato for finally getting its municipal swimming pool project off the dime, to the point of award with completion set for within 120 days.

A BRICKBAT to Marin County Supervisors who knew of the need for redistricting for two years but only came up with a "stop gap" move last Friday when forced into it by court action.

BRICKBATS—and a few concrete slabs—to those who clip, scrape and clean up their yards and gardens these fine days, and then dump the dirty residue on someone else's property or along a road or highway. Cleanup time means a clean county as well as some folks' own yards.

BOUQUETS to the founders of Marin's newest civic organization, the Tiburon Merchants Assn., which will directly attack parking problems and carry on promotional activities.

GIVES LIFE FOR KOREAN BOYS

Some years agon an American ex-G.I. heeded the cries for help of two Korean lads whose raft was caught in the swirling currents of the Han River.

Diving into the treacherous stream he swam toward the troubled craft only to disappear beneath the waves. He bobbed up again but the undertow was too much for him and he died trying to save the youngsters.

Medard Zweber, a 26-year-old native of New Market, Minn., was an unusual person. As a soldier in Korea, he used to spend his weekends bringing needed food and companionship to the country's war orphans. He led other G.I.s to refugee centers and hospitals where they repaired roofs, painted and did repair work.

Returning home with his outfit, he thought often of his beloved Koreans and volunteered to go back, this time to devote his life to caring for the country's homeless refugees. It was in this capacity that he died.

Love for others for the love of God characterizes the true follower of Christ, whether in far-off lands or here at home.

"Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends."
(John 15:13)

Grant me the courage, O Holy Spirit, to give of my time, effort and even life itself to bring others Your love.

Viva I'l-J: That's What The Man Said

Just in case you noted Monsieur Vilaceque's letter from Perpignan, France, in Wednesday's I-J and wonder just what it said (and many subscribers have telephoned to inquire) here's a translation into English. Several readers sent these in—Editor

Sir:

Mr. H. Purdy of San Rafael, passing through Perpignan, has had the kindness to make a visit to our paper which carries the same name as yours. and we have been happy to note his passing through and to have pointed out the existence of your daily paper.

We send our best wishes for you and your paper, wishing that should the case arise we might be able to have some contact again.

Every Plan Needs Co-Ordinated Study

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I submit to you the following comments—

1. Fine for you on the February 3 editorial dealing with the traffic and parking conditions. San Rafael's city government should listen to you and recognize the immediate necessity for well planned and forward looking improvements in each instance. Certainly the present conditions are not complimentary to our city, and exasperating to those of us (and visitors) who must contend with them.

2. As to the planning program requiring reappraisal and reorganization, which was discussed in the Gusman Hall meeting, I am in complete accord. While I represent West Marin on the County Planning Commission, I became convinced that there was duplication in planning, and a need for closer coordination between the cities and county planners under the present laws and regulations.

Simplicity, uniformity, and harmony were often overlooked. And local bias, or expediency, frequently permitted to outweigh over-all interests of the county. Too many times city plans conflicted or in some similar way were not in agreement with county plans, which resulted in a disservice to the general interest of both city and county.

Therefore the suggestion for a planning commission of which the membership would consist of representatives from each of the urban communities and the county districts is definitely a deserving one in my opinion and should be given immediate and mature consideration.

3. Such a commission should have a broad scope of responsibility in recommending to the Board of Supervisors. Surely it should be empowered to advise and recommend upon any matter effecting the welfare and growth of Marin's cities and the county in connection with building, zoning, traffic, "open spaces," recreation and architectural harmony. I stress "broad scope" because piecemeal solutions lack comprehensiveness, vision, and are liable to temporary adjustments and exceptions.

4. The technical staff which is charged with the duty of recommending to the commission should be given a commensurate pay inducement, and the adequate personnel to efficiently and expeditiously carry out its duties and responsibilities.

5. I have no political or professional allegiance in submitting these comments, but I do have the interest of my city and my county seriously in mind.

I agree with Mr. Behr's statement—"Make your progress, our progress."

He Senses No-Win Foreign Policy

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It has been interesting reading your "Letters to the Editor" column the past ten days concerning both the John Birch Society and the United Nations.

Several readers wrote indicating that they to, like a lot of the rest of us, have been lulled to sleep by the purveyors of "One-Worldism doctrines" when they criticize the John Birch Society. After doing some reading to determine the goals of the "Society", it is my understanding that they are an educational organization attempting to awaken the American people to the fact that we are losing our constitutional republic to enemies both from within and without.

Regarding the United Nations, Mr. Woodward, in his recent letter, appears to have been right when he says that "the United Nations is a Trojan Horse in our midst for the sole benefit of the communist conspiracy." Along this same line, there is an organization in New York City that has affiliated branches thruout the country that is trying to replace step by step, our constitutional republic, and our national sovereignty with an allegiance to the United Nations, and make us part of a One-World Fabian Socialistic Society.

To me, this organization is the enemy from within, unfortunately, and lists among its members many people very high up in the executive and legislative branches of our federal government. Also, some of the members of this organization have been, or are, identified with communist and/or Communist-front groups. These same people are the very ones who are selling us on the no-win foreign policy we have today. And are responsible for dissipating our wealth and resources for the short term benefit of the few, and the long range benefit of the Kremlin. These can't be moral men!

Johnson's Press Conferences Are Unpredictable As To Time, Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The most unpredictable event in Washington is a President Lyndon B. Johnson news conference. He seems to call conferences on impulse, with scant advance notice.

The word "impulse" seems justified here, as it does with some of Johnson's other dealings with newspaper people—like taking them on a tour of the White House or his ranch.

Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy rambled a bit, with halts, starts, and some broken sentences. So does Johnson, with some additional rambling of a different kind which he must feel serves a purpose of its own.

WHERE THE other two men pretty much limited their answers to a specific question asked, Johnson has a tendency to spread out, hopping from one subject to another while replying to a single question.

This can't necessarily be called good, bad, helpful, or unhelpful—at least not yet. The multiple answer technique enables Johnson to get across a lot of things he wants to say.

But, while the long statements permit him to give out more information, or opinions, on more subjects than reporters might have thought to ask him about, it also reduces the time they have for asking questions they might want answers to.

EISENHOWER and Kennedy usually handled 25 to 30 questions. The most questions Johnson answered was 18 at one conference; 9 at another; 17 at another; 14 at another. Then there was a memorable meeting with the press when, after making a statement, he answered only one question.

The accuracy of calling that particular meeting with the press a news conference is questionable. Johnson called the reporters together suddenly for one reason—or so it seemed. That was to give information on Panama.

WHEN HE finished, one newsman asked: "How do you think things are going on the Hill (meaning with Congress)?" That gave Johnson two opportunities: to talk about what Congress was doing with his programs, and to talk about his relations with his former Senate aide, Robert G. (Bobby) Baker.

When he got through with his double-long answer to that single question Johnson walked out. But he used the question to give his view on how he came to receive a $585 hi-fi set.

An insurance agent wh had written a large policy o Johnson's life had testifie that he paid for the set.

THE PRESIDENT said th set had been given him b Baker. He said Baker did no expect anything in return and that the Johnson an Baker families had exchang ed gifts before.

The Senate Rules Commit tee is investigating Baker whose financial activities sound fabulous. Baker, one-time Johnson protege, began his Capitol Hill career as a page boy and advanced to secretary of the Democratic majority.

Johnson was the Democratic leader in the Senate when Baker was there. Baker quit last October under fire and so far has refused to talk.

THE INSURANCE MAN, Don B. Reynolds, said he bought the music set and had it shipped to Johnson at Baker's request shortly after $100,000 in insurance on Johnson's life was purchased through Reynolds' agency.

This was Johnson's first public comment on the Baker case. He has declined to say anything further. It is debatable whether he was wise to comment at all. He has opened the door to be quizzed further as the committee investigation goes on.

Johnson might have saved himself such questions by issuing a single statement when the Baker case is finished, if he felt it necessary to say anything.

Eisenhower and Kennedy usually let it be known days ahead when they would meet newsmen. The place was always known beforehand. This enabled all newspapermen and women with White House credentials to be present and try to question the president.

JOHNSON'S conferences have been called on such short notice, right in the White House or at his ranch, that the only newspaper people able to be present usually have been those regularly assigned to cover the president.

This isn't by itself necessarily bad, either. Some Eisenhower and Kennedy conferences looked like mob scenes. Some, because of the dullness and pettiness of the questions, were boring.

Johnson, neither as witty nor as much at ease as Kennedy, has not yet attempted what Kennedy did as routine for almost three years: Meet the press at a question-and-answer session televised live.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Viet Nam Faces LBJ With Fateful Decision

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — To fight or to negotiate—that is the fateful decision now squarely up to President Johnson on what to do about war-racked and politically unstable South Viet Nam.

This "agonizing reappraisal" confronts him and his top diplomatic and military advisers as the result of two colliding catalysts: President De Gaulle's recognition of Red China and advocacy of the neutralization of Viet Nam, and Major Gen. Nguyen Khanh's sudden seizure of power.

Flatly disagreeing with De Gaulle, the new Vietnamese "strong-man" emphatically favors expanding and intensifying the protracted struggle against the Communist aggressors — by taking the war directly to its source, North Viet Nam.

THIS CRUCIAL policy divergence on the international stage is exactly duplicated in the inner councils of the Johnson administration.

Key military leaders want the U. S. to fully support Khanh in taking the war slashingly to North Viet Nam, chiefly with air attacks on Communist supply lines and highly vulnerable industrial targets constructed in the last few years. This has long been urged by Gen. Paul Harkins, U. S. commander in Viet Nam.

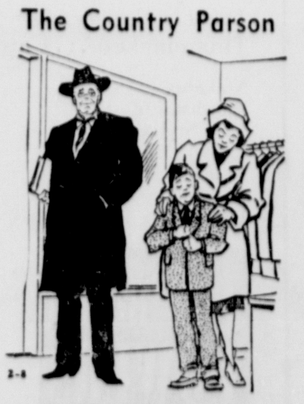

Strenuously opposed are the principal foreign policy makers of the Johnson administration as well as its predecessor—Secretary Dean Rusk, McGeorge Bundy, special White House assistant on foreign affairs, and Dr. Walt Rostow, head of the State Department's Policy Planning Council.

This influential group contends that enlargement of the South Vietnamese war would almost certainly escalate it into a general conflict involving both regular North Vietnamese troops and Red Chinese forces.

AS RUSK, Bundy and Rostow see it, the situation could "quickly deteriorate into another Korea."

It is up to the president to determine which course to pursue.

HEART FUND

How You Can Aid 10 Million People

(Third of Four Articles)

The 1964 Heart Fund campaign, which will be conducted in Marin County and throughout the nation during February, is in effect a combined appeal. The Heart Fund fights a great many diseases, responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths. These diseases affect more than 10 million Americans.

The battle is waged through carefully balanced programs of research, education and community service carried forward by the Marin County Heart Assn. with the support and direction of the country's most eminent cardiologists and medical scientists. Since 1949 more than 80 million dollars have been channeled into medical research.

Chief targets of this research are discovery of the underlying causes of atherosclerosis (commonly known as hardening of the arteries), high blood pressure and rheumatic fever — disorders which are responsible for more than 90 per cent of all heart and blood vessel disease.

Research made possible by the Heart Fund is focused with almost equal intensity on the end results of atherosclerosis and high blood pressure, strokes and heart attacks. It is also focused on rheumatic fever — in many cases, rheumatic heart disease, a leading enemy of childhood.

Research interests of the Heart association include more than a score of heart diseases, among them inborn heart defects, congestive heart failure, bacterial infections of the heart, and hypertensive heart desease. Diseases of the kidneys are also targets of heart research.

The great multiplicity of heart diseases entities, together with a fatality toll amounting to more than 900,000 Americans a year, spotlights the importance of the heart cause and explains why so many believe that only an independent campaign can achieve the support it needs and must have if we are to conquer heart diseases.

'Officer' Paul James Arraigned

Paul James, 31, of San Francisco was arraigned before the United States Commissioner in San Francisco yesterday on a charge of impersonating an officer at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Bail was set at $500. Trial date is to be set Feb. 20.

While at Hamilton, James claimed to be "Mr. James of the Office of Special Investigation," according to air police who arrested him Thursday. He said he was "doing special work for Att. Gen. Robert Kennedy" but had not received his orders yet, the air police reported.

James used his OSI "authority" to arrange for an Air Force car to take him around the base, the air police said. The driver became suspicious when James insisted that he take him to San Francisco, and called the air police.

According to the air police, James was also picked up by San Francisco police on Jan. 9, wearing a summer Air Force uniform with a captain's insignia.

Man Sent To Vacaville In Stolen Goods Case

A Stinson Beach mathematician, who accumulated antiques stolen from neighboring homes, was committed yesterday for 90 days to the California Medical Facility at Vacaville.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court ordered James M. Liberman, 35, committed to Vacaville for observation. Liberman will then be returned to Marin for sentencing. He was convicted by jury last month for receiving stolen goods.

Bolinas Utilities Unit Secretary Is Named

Mrs. M. E. Wilson of Bolinas last night was named secretary of the Bolinas Beach Public Utilities District. She replaces Mrs. Glory Berry, leaving for a European jaunt.

In other business, the board agreed to give the Bolinas Community Center a resume of its activities at 8 p.m. today at the center, according to Sherman R. Smith, district chairman.

'Consider Red China'

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—A Republican congressman said last night that the United States would be "foolhardy not to consider the possibility" of recognizing Red China, because of the country's potential as a nuclear power.

Rep. Pat Minor Martin said: "If we establish diplomatic relations now, perhaps we can talk over our differences." Martin represents Riverside and Imperial counties.

4-H Club Horse Show Is Slated

The 14th annual All-Junior Horse Show of Marin Mounted 4-H Club will be Feb. 22-23 at Circle V Stables about one and a half miles west of Fairfax.

Activities both days start at 9 a.m., with English riding events scheduled the first day and Western the second. The former includes jumping and 4-H halter class. Western includes trail riding.

Entries must be in by Wednesday, according to club officials.

Deadly Winter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of deaths in the United States runs almost 15 per cent higher in winter than in summer, says the Institute of Life Insurance. This rise is caused mainly by heart attacks, pneumonia and influenza.

Marin Jobless Up During Last Month

Unemployment rose in Marin County last month, mainly because of a one-week rainy spell.

Unemployment insurance benefits rose to 970 a week in January as compared with 865 per week in December, reported Edwin W. Ayer, manager of the San Rafael office of the state department of employment.

The rise was due primarily to claims filed by construction workers temporarily laid off because of heavy rains, he said.

The unemployment benefits also were higher than the 875 per week in January, 1963. This increase is due primarily to the fact that people are coming into the local labor market faster than new jobs are created, he said.

Job placements dipped, totaling 443 for January as compared to 493 in December, Ayer reported. "The decrease from December is a regular seasonal factor," he said.

Job placements also were below the 451 in January, 1963. This dip was due to the rain which decreased hiring for outside work, Ayer said.

Man Is Injured As Truck Crashes

Robert Edward Sanders, 31, of 326 Walnut Street, Petaluma, suffered facial cuts when his pickup truck veered across Highway 101, about a half-mile north of the Hamilton Air Force Base, at 12:20 a.m. today.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Sander's northbound truck crossed the divider into the southbound lanes, and also struck a roadway sign.

Sanders was charged with drunken driving and failing to drive within a single lane. He was treated at Novato General Hospital and then booked at county jail.

Memorial Services Set For Landscape Architect Hein

A memorial service will be held for Herman E. Hein, Mill Valley landscape architect, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross tomorrow at 2 p.m. Hein died last Saturday following a sudden heart attack.

The brief ceremonies, open to the public, will take place in the open area around the fountain at the center.

Three close and longtime friends of the late civic leader who was one of the founders in 1947 of the Marin Art and Garden Center, will participate in the event. James S. Goodale, executive vice president of the center, will conduct the service; Edwin A. Wells, retired principal of San Rafael High School, will talk briefly of Hein and of his contribution to the center and to the community; Joseph Miksak, a professor at San Francisco State College, will read poems by Walt Whitman.

Following the talks and reading, the Hein family will receive friends in the Caroline S. Livermore room of the Northgate Building at the center.

What Ever Happened To Diamonds? Columnist Asks Reader To Ponder

CASTRO

Sidney Silodor, one of America's greatest bridge experts, passed away last year but he left the bridge world one of the finest books on duplicate bridge ever written. It is my favorite and one of my favorite chapters is, "What Happened to Diamonds?" Silidor wrote his book, "Silidor Says," in 1952 and that chapter is just as important today as it was when he first noticed that diamonds were being used as just a stepping stone to the majors or no trump.

Here is a hand that was dealt last Tuesday evening at the Hamilton Air Force Base Bridge Club. This club meets in the Officer's Club, a most enjoyable place to play.

CLUB DIRECTOR is Mrs. L. A. Forbes, she bid three no trump and made five against me for tie for top; other than that she is a very lovely hostess and director. They generally donate their playing facilities for our unit games. Our annual charity party is held there and it has become one of the most successful charity parties in the nation.

NORTH
♠ Q 10 9 7 5
♦ A K J 9 6

SOUTH
♥ A 9 8
♦ Q 8 4
♣ A K J 10 9 5

The bidding, neither vulnerable:

North	West	South	East
1♠	P	2♣	P
2♦	P	3♣	P
3♦	P	3NT	All Pass

This is how the bidding actually occured at most tables. Not one team reached six diamonds. I'll admit this is a difficult hand on which to reach six diamonds but these hands are just waiting for someone to handle them correctly for a top.

I BELIEVE the bidding should go as follows: North — Pass, South — 1♣, North —1♠, South — 2♣ North — 2♦, South — 3♣, North — 3♦, South — 4♦, North 5♣, South — 6♦.

How do you like South's 3 club bid? To many players this is screaming weakness and a desire to play clubs only. Not to me, this is announcing a full opening bid or else I would have passed North's 2♦ bid or taken a preference to 2♠. Three clubs also leaves your partner room to describe his hand more fully.

NOW TAKE South's 4♦ bid, this too is very encouraging as he could pass 3♦ or take another preference to 3♠ or 3NT. North's 5♣ bid denotes a doubleton club and a singleton heart, and is another forward going bid showing his willingness to play in game so his hand must reevaluate to 13 points. He also could have passed four diamonds but chose to go forward.

I have heard many complaints lately at sectionals and regionals about the highly distributional hands. Most players do not listen to the tenuous inferences implied by the 3♣ and four diamond bids. You cannot bid forward three times and announce weakness to your partner. Each bid you make further describes your hand — as modified by the progressing bidding sequence. Remember, your hand should be revalued each time your partner, or the opposition, makes any bid.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Feb. 8, the 39th day of 1964 with 327 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1857, Mary, Queen of Scots, was beheaded after being charged with plotting the murder of Britain's Queen Elizabeth I.

In 1940, every 10th person was shot in two villages near Warsaw, Poland, in reprisal for the deaths of two German soldiers.

In 1948, an Air Force jet bomber flew across the United States in three hours, 46 minutes, the fastest transcontinental flight to that date.

In 1963, Premier Abdul Karim Kassim of Iraq was slain in a pro-Nasserite coup.

A thought for the day — Greek story teller Aesop said: "It is easy to despise what you cannot get."

Yesterday's Answer

New Regime Announced In Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) —Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Vietnam's 36-year-old strong-man, announced the formation of a new government today with himself as premier.

Dapper in paratrooper's fatigues, Khanh read the list of Cabinet officers from the steps of his office building and vowed to "bring forth all our strength to repel Communist aggression, to bring security to our people, especially those in the countryside."

Khanh named the popular Maj Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state. Minh, leader of the deposed military junta, is expected to have only nominal power.

Minh will live in Saigon's Gia Long Palace, formerly occupied by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, Minh, who led the coalition of generals that ousted the Diem regime last Nov. 1, was overthrown by Khanh's swift, bloodless coup on Jan. 30.

While a crowd of politicians, diplomats and newsmen listened in a parking lot below, Khanh disclosed his list of three deputy premiers, five ministers and 10 secretaries of state.

Explaining what he called the new government's historic mission to save the country, Khanh said: "Every act aimed at sowing disunity and act of sabotage beneficial to the Communists and neutralists will constitute a crime against the people of the motherland."

Yesterday a bomb exploded in a Saigon bar, killing five Vietnamese, including a bar girl. Six U. S. servicemen were wounded, none seriously.

The explosion at the Playboy Bar was the worst terrorist act in the capital in more than a year. The night spot is often frequented by Americans. It is near a big hotel for U. S. enlisted men.

Plaza Poles Painted

Sausalito's two 70-foot flag poles in Vina Del Mar Plaza were painted yesterday and the day before by an itinerant steeplejack, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said today. Painting of both in white cost $100. The poles stand behind the square's elephants. One flies the American flag; the other, the California bear flag.

GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS

Beatles Of Britain Invade United States

NEW YORK (AP)—The Beatles, Britain's rock 'n' rollers with the haystack hairdos, blew up a teen-age storm by arriving here.

At Kennedy Airport yesterday, about 3,000 delirious, shrieking, hooky-playing youngsters, many of them carrying Beatle banners, strained against police barricades to welcome the singing, guitar-strumming quartet.

It was mostly girls, girls, girls.

"I love them, I love them!" cried one.

"They're so cute!" said another.

"Their singing tears me apart and lets out all frustrations," sighed a Brooklyn girl.

Pelted by jelly beans and candy kisses, all loving every bit of it, were Beatles Paul McCartney, 21; George Harrison, 21; Ringo Starr, 23, and John Lennon, 23. Lennon's pretty blonde wife, Cynthia, accompanied the group but stayed well in the background.

The Beatles, their records best sellers for months, were almost an American institution before they got here. Already on sale are Beatle wigs, boots, T-shirts, sweatshirts, toss pillows and scarves. In Britain, 20,000 rag-mop wigs have been sold.

The adulation of the Beatles is reminiscent of the grip Frank Sinatra had on teenagers some years ago and, more recently of Elvis Presley.

But when a newsman described them as "four Elvis Presleys" the foursome shouted in unison: "No, no, no, no!"

The Beatles began their debut in a Liverpool jazz cellar 15 months ago for about $20 a week. They now command $10,000 a performance and are reputed to have earned 17 million dollars.

Zooming into Manhattan, each in his own limousine, the Beatles created consternation at the staid old Plaza Hotel, where they're staying. There was a screaming crowd waiting there, and foot patrolmen and mounted troops had to take over.

The Beatles appear tomorrow night on television. On Tuesday they go to Washington for a concert. On Wednesday they will give two shows at New York's Carnegie Hall—already sellouts. Another stop during their tour, which ends Feb 17, in Miami Beach.

St. Stephen's Parish Day School Meet Set

The board of trustees of St. Stephen's Parish Day School in Belvedere will have its annual meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. James Michael of Belevedere, board chairman.

St. Stephen's, the only nongraded school in Marin County, announced today that registrations are open. Age range for pupils is from 4½ through 8 years. The curriculum covers primary education preparatory for the intermediate level. School hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. weekdays.

500 Expected At McCarthy-Bagley Testimonial Dinner

A crowd of about 500 is expected at a testimonial dinner for State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley on Feb. 28 in San Rafael.

The social hour is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. at Dominic's Restaurant.

Gerald E. Misner, chairman of the Republican Central Committee in Marin, will be program chairman. Among distinguished guests invited are Caspar W. Weinberger, chairman of the state central committee, and Joseph Martin Jr. of San Francisco, Republican national committeeman.

Senator McCarthy has been in office since 1950 and is minority floor leader in the Senate. Assemblyman Bagley was elected in 1960.

Coast Guard Dinner

Flotilla 14 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will have a dinner dance in honor of Past Commander Kenneth Black at Sabella's restaurant in Alto next Saturday preceded by a social hour starting at 6:30 p.m.

What Senate Tax Cut Bill Means To You

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the major provisions of the 11.6-billion-dollars tax cut bill passed by the Senate yesterday.

Individual Rates— The present schedule of 20 to 91 per cent would be reduced to 14 to 70 per cent, with two-thirds of the cut effective in 1964 retroactive to Jan. 1, one-third in 1965. The Senate and House bills are identical.

Withholding from Salaries and Wages — The Senate bill would cut rates from the present 18 per cent to a 14 per cent one week after the measure is signed. The House bill would cut it to 15 per cent this year, 14 per cent starting in 1965.

Corporate Rates—The present 52 per cent tax—30 per cent normal, 22 per cent surtax—cut to 50 per cent this year retroactive to Jan. 1, 48 per cent starting in 1965. Normal and surtax rates would be reversed so they would wind up 22 per cent normal and 26 per cent surtax next year to give a greater break to small firms. The Senate and House bills are identical.

Capital Gains — The House bill would cut rates on stock or other assets held more than two years so any gain would be taxed at 40 per cent of normal levy with a 21 per cent ceiling and would retain the present rate of 50 per cent of regular tax with a 25 per cent ceiling for those held six months to two years. The Senate bill would continue present rates unchanged.

Itemized Deductions — The House bill would deny deductions, now permitted, for state gasoline taxes, auto tags, drivers' licenses, liquor taxes, tobacco taxes and certain excise taxes including those on admissions and hotel rooms. The Senate bill would continue deductions on gasoline taxes, auto tags and drivers' licenses.

Stock Dividend Credit Income—Both bills would repeal the 4 per cent credit on stock dividend income which may now be subtracted from taxes due. They also would double the present exclusion of such income from taxable income; the new allowances would be $100 for an individual, $200 for a married couple.

Minimum Standard Deduction—This feature, the same in both bills, would allow a flat deduction of $300 for each taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption after his own. It could be used as an alternative to the present deduction of 10 per cent of gross income up to a $1,000 maximum.

Evening School's Classes Still Open

Registration for non-credit classes in the College of Marin evening adult education program are still open and will remain open unless classes become too crowded, Dr. Elsworth Briggs, dean of the program, announced today.

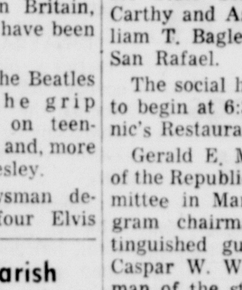

An editorial in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly stated yesterday that registrations were closed.

Registration for evening credit classes will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of next week and again on Feb. 17. Students may register at Room 1 of Harlan Hall at the Kentfield campus or in the Novato High School office.

Marin Upsets Napa; Title Hopes Soar

College of Marin Tars threw the Golden Valley Conference basketball race into a wide-open scramble and sent their own title hopes soaring last night by thoroughly humiliating the previously-unbeaten Napa Chiefs, 101-86 before some 700 fans at the Drake High School gymnasium.

Napa held onto first place with a 4-1 record while Marin, playing what Coach Cal Riemcke described as "our best game of the season," tied Santa Rosa for second place, each with a 4-2 mark after Santa Rosa bowed to Sierra, 72-71, last night. Sierra challenges Napa tonight and a Sierra victory would create a four-way tie for first place between Marin, Santa Rosa, Napa and Sierra.

Marin threw a half-court press defense into action and forced the fumbling Chiefs to commit numerous errors which the speedy Tars converted to field goals. Leading the press were Ron O'Connell and Jay Johnson who harnessed the Chiefs throughout the night. The Tars stole the ball 19 times with O'Connell personally swiping it 9 times.

It was close through the first quarter with Napa holding a 23-21 edge after 10 minutes, but then O'Connell and Johnson opened fire in a blistering attack that sent the Tars shooting to a 57-37 halftime lead. They never worried thereafter.

O'Connell, the former Marin Catholic flash, tallied 33 points, his season high. Brad Busch contributed 23, Johnson tanked 20 and beautifully made 11 assists which led to goals, and Bill Hodgson added 13 to give Marin four men in double figures. Pete Bardea with 8 points and Steve Anderson with 4 rounded out the scoring.

To offset Napa's height advantage, the Tars employed a spread offense, drew out the towering Chiefs, and worked the ball for drive-in plays to O'Connell, Johnson and Busch. Marin hit on 39 of 84 floor shots for 46 per cent and 23 of 29 foul shots. Napa's shooting was 30 for 64/47 pct. from the floor) and 26 for 30 charities.

Greatest U.S. Upset In Olympics

Independent-Journal Sports

Kidd, Heuga Place 2d, 3d In Slalom

By TED SMITS

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — A pair of daring 20-year-old American students, Billy Kidd and Jim Heuga, rocketed to silver and bronze medals today in the slalom for the finest U.S. men's Alpine skiing performance ever in the Winter Olympic Games.

Kidd, of Stowe, Vt., and Heuga, of Tahoe City, Calif., a 145-pound college boy from the University of Colorado, stunned the skiing world with second and third place finishes behind Josef "Pepi" Stiegler of Austria.

Olympic observers called it the "biggest upset in Olympic skiing history."

Stiegler maintained Austria's supremacy in the event, unbroken since 1952, by shooting down the two, gate-dotted courses on Birgitzkoepfl Mountain in 2 minutes, 11.3 seconds.

Kidd was timed in 2:11.27 for the two runs and Heuga, unseeded and an unfavorable 24th in the original starting list, was clocked in 2:11.52.

The United States never before had won a medal in men's Alpine skiing in the Olympic Games, although its women have fared well.

SIX MEDALS

The two medals raised the American cache to six, including two Alpine skiing medals—a silver and bronze—for Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore.; a bronze for the 14-year-old figure skating whiz, Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N. J., and gold—the only one—for barber Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich., in speed skating.

The Russians continue to dominate the Games, with a total of 24 medals, but after a sluggish start the Americans have finished the big ice and snow spectacle on a high note.

The Soviets picked up their 24th medal earlier in the day—a bronze third—in the back-breaking 40-kilometer men's ski relay race, won by Sweden.

Assar Roennlund of Sweden put on a tremendous spurt over the final 10,000 meter leg (6.2 miles) to overtake the Russians and finally the flying Finns, who had shot into second place.

The United States finished 13th in the field of 15 teams, beating out only Britain and Canada. The Americans were timed in 2:39.17.3.

Members of the relay team were Mike Gallagher of Killington, Vt.; Mike Elliott of Durango, Colo.; Jim Shea of Lake Placid, N. Y., and John Bower, of Auburn, Maine.

A crowd of 30,000 swarmed the narrow Lizum Valley to see the exciting slalom races, considered among the most dramatic and difficult events in the winter spectacle.

It was so tough that the heavy advance favorite, Francois Bonlieu of France, winner of the giant slalom, took a tumble on the lower slopes in the first run and had to abandon the race.

FANTASTIC COMEBACK

Kidd, a high school student, made the most fantastic comeback, rallying from sixth place after the first run.

He skied in a low crouch and worked hard with his poles. He made the turns somewhat wide but glided beautifully over the tricky course and finished the second run in 1 minute, 31 seconds.

Heuga, skiing without cap or goggles, shot down the track at breakneck speed, cutting the flags so finely that it appeared his skis shaved the poles.

The Russians captured their 10th gold medal Friday, making it impossible for any other county to overtake them in the medal count in the remaining competition.

San Rafael 'B' Quint Holds Second Place

San Rafael High School's Class B basketball team remained in second place in the Marin Athletic League by edging Terra Linda's Bees 39-38 last night in the Terra Linda gym.

The two teams were tied for second place going into the game, both with 4-2 marks. League-leading Novato (6-0) was out of league action last night after drawing a bye, but downed Galileo High School in a practice game, 38-36.

In other Class B league action, Redwood bumped Marin Catholic 56-42, and Drake downed Tamalpais 44-30.

Bill Pandiani with 18 points led the San Rafael cagers to victory. John McGee topped the scoring for Redwood in its game with Marin Catholic with 15 points, and Tom Walsh led the Wildkittens' scoring with 14 points. Redwood scored 25 points in the final quarter.

Tam Cagers Set Record; San Rafael Wins Seventh

Indians Clobber Drake, 82-61; Record (We Think)

The cagers of Tamalpais High School set what is believed to be a new Marin Athletic League scoring record for a single game last night when the Indians dumped Drake 82-61 in the Tam gym.

League Commissioner George Corson said today he has no records of statistics of past years, but the 82 points are believed to be the most scored by a team in the history of the league, which was organized in 1959.

Cedric Collett and Chris Schuepbach, Tam cagers who have been averaging about six points per game this year, saved up all their scoring for last night, each hitting 21 points to lead the Tamalpais attack.

The Indians jumped out to a 24-19 lead in the first quarter when Larry Gray scored eight points and Schuepbach nine in a blistering opening period. The Indians, after scoring 15 and 18 points in the second and third periods, again scored 24 points in the final period to register the record total.

31 BUCKETS

Tam scored 31 field goals in 74 attempts to register the record. The other 20 points came from the free throw line, the Indians missing on 10 other charity tosses. Drake hit 21 out of 60 from the floor and 19 out of 32 from the free throw line.

Lorry Galassi, Drake's top scorer for the year, scored 10 points in the opening quarter and went on to total 22 points for the game's high production.

Rich Olsen led the Tam rebounders with 14.

Individual scoring:

Drake	19	14	12	16—61
Tamalpais	24	15	18	24—82

McKinnon Paces Bulldogs Over Terra Linda Quint

San Rafael High School's powerful basketball machine rolled to its seventh straight Marin Athletic League victory last night, a 59-50 triumph over the Terra Linda Trojans in the losers' gym.

Rod Monti, San Rafael's top point producer and the league's leading scorer, was outscored by teammate John McKinnon, the Bulldogs' center. McKinnon hit for 19 points and Monti tallied 16.

The Trojans were led by Don Knotts who registered 18 points.

It was a game filled with fouls, with 28 infractions called on each team, a total of 56 in the game. Monti fouled out with still three minutes left in the third period, the reason he didn't come up to his 23.5 point average in league competition.

Four Trojans fouled out of the game, Bill Lee, Kraig Kilby, Bob Cooney and Brian Perron.

TROJANS RALLY

At one point in the third quarter, San Rafael had a 20-point lead, but with five minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Terra Linda rallied to come within five points of the league leading Bulldogs.

San Rafael scored 23 of its points from the free throw line in 39 attempts, compared to Terra Linda's 22 out of 36 chances. From the floor, San Rafael made 18 out of 49 and Terra Linda 14 out of 46.

McKinnon led the rebounders in the game with 14, and Bill Brody with 11 led the Trojans.

Individual scoring:

San Rafael	20	12	13	16—59
Terra Linda	10	8	15	17—50

San Rafael scorers—Rod Monti, 5-6—16; John McKinnon, 7-5—19; Wade Roberts, 2-1—5; Steve Spurling, 2-4—8; Pat Haven, 2-4—8; Rob Rich, 0-2—2; Terry Overlid, 0-1—1. Totals: 18-23—59.

Terra Linda scorers — Don Knotts, 6-6—18; Dick Clark, 3-2—8; Bill Brody, 2-3—7; Kraig Kilby, 0-4—4; Bill Lee, 1-2-4; Bob Cooney, 0-3—3; Bob Lemmelet, 1-0—2; Brian Perron, 0-2—2; Rich Reed, 1-0—2. Totals: 14-22—50.

Redwood Defeats Marin Catholic '5'

Led by the 26 points of Dave Auerbach, Redwood High School's cage team topped the Marin Catholic cagers 68-60 last night in the Marin Catholic gym.

The victory in the first game of the second half of round-robin play in the Marin Athletic League put both teams in a third place tie with 4-3 marks.

The Giants of Redwood jumped out to an 18-9 lead early in the second quarter and Marin came back to close the gap to 20-17 later in that period. Redwood led at the half, 27-23.

Fourteen of Auerbach's 26 points were from the free throw line, as he missed only four charity tosses.

The officials' whistles were blowing all through the game as 49 fouls, 27 against Marin and 22 against Redwood, were called by Joe Grove and Coke Morrison.

CLOSE GAP

In the final quarter, Marin closed the gap to 53-51, but couldn't quite catch the Giants. Bruce Makinson, Marin center, fouled out in the first minute of the final quarter.

Marin was led in the scoring column by Tom Soden and Mike Ferrua with 15 each, and Bob Redding with 13.

Redwood hit 28 out of 41 free throws in the game and Marin scored 24 out of 34.

Individual scoring:

Redwood	15	12	15	26—68
Marin Catholic	9	14	15	22—60

Redwood scorers — Larry Herst, 2-3-7; Bob Piro, 3-1-7; Dave Auerbach, 6-14-26; Hillard Witt, 3-2-8; Paul Ackerman, 2-4-8; Jim Carroll, 0-1-1; Jim Halm, 3-3-9; Tom Bly, 1-0-2. Totals: 20-28—68.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN

Some Pros And Cons On Marin Prep League's New Open Practice Policy

By a five to two vote the Marin Athletic League's Board of Managers this week voted to permit "open" practice for all sports on a two-year experimental basis.

Briefly, it means a coach can instruct a boy who specializes in one sport at any time during the year rather than just during the period that particular sport is in season.

The reason for loosening the practice regulations was officially expressed by Donald Kreps, principal of Redwood High School, in his capacity as president of the Board of Managers, to wit:

"We feel strongly that each boy who wishes to participate in inter-school athletics has the right to select his own activities and to pursue and strive for excellence in the areas of his choice.

"Having open season for practice will put us in line with other leagues in the Bay Area . . . (and) . . . it will improve the caliber of sports."

Nodding assent to this way of thinking were Tamalpais, Redwood, Drake, Marin Catholic and Novato high schools.

The dissenters were San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools.

GEORGE GUSTAFSON

AS THE league's official affirmative stand already has been well aired, I thought you'd like to hear the other side, so I called Angelo Colombo, director of athletics at San Rafael and an outspoken critic of the open practice.

"I've had experience with this open season in my early coaching career elsewhere," the curly-topped, greying Colombo started off, "and it just doesn't work out. The abuses it creates outnumber the benefits. That argument that it strives toward all-around excellence is a lot of hog wash."

Warming up to the subject, Colombo, a former star athlete at San Rafael continued, "For one thing you'll find coaches vying for talent and forcing a boy to specialize very early in life, which I'm strongly against. I've found it bankrupts kids. It's like taking a student strong in mathematics, telling him he's great at it and to concentrate on this subject and that's all.

"I'M AFRAID with this open practice you'll find some coaches having the kids practice all the time, even during Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vacations. That's pressure."

Colombo said a poll of his athletic staff surprisingly voted 100 per cent against the open practice. He said San Rafael will stick closer to the old restrictions, but . . . "with some modifications to protect ourselves and our athletes" for competition with other schools. "We'll set our own rules," he said, "so the student is considered first."

Terra Linda's staff also voted against open practice, but not by the 100 per cent margin.

Without trying to make a government case out of the subject, I rang a few bells around the MAL neighborhood for a few other comments.

BOB TROPPMANN, athletic director and football coach at Redwood, sees the open practice as a break for the boys. Said Tropp: "It will give us (coaches) more time to work with the boys and everybody will get a fair chance to make the team."

Of the specialization complaint, Tropp offered: "This is the age of the specialist and the trend is continuing in that direction, although we'll still encourage boys to participate in other sports."

Troppmann also added: "We'll have to police our own coaching program so as not to abuse this new privilege. We don't want to build any monsters out of this thing. I'm sure all coaches agree with me and the administrators will see that the privilege isn't abused."

SAID NOVATO High football coach Marlin Olsen: "I don't think it will make much difference up here. Maybe a little. I'll probably take a few kids out and work with them this spring (on football) but we aren't planning any full scale spring practice. It requires so much time and we just don't have it. Anyway, to some extent I still go along with the old (restrictive) rule that they didn't want us to exploit the kids."

On the matter of spring football practice, legal now, Terra Linda athletic director Bill O'Bayley stated: "We're still undecided. We don't know if it's valuable enough. If we do decide to have spring practice it won't be just to go along with the rest of the crowd."

GEORGE GUSTAFSON, the veteran Tam coach, now director of athletics, said the open rule is nothing new in this area. "Before the Marin League came into being we had no restrictions on practice in the North Bay League. We just policed ourselves and had no trouble at all. We played spring sports in the spring, football in the fall and basketball in the winter.

"Our local league similarly will have to set up some kind of coaching philosophy so that some coaches won't get carried away."

He said Tam is tentatively planning to conduct spring football practice.

Eight Marin Players In All-Star Tilt

Former stars Joe DiMaggio and Dolph Camilli and San Francisco Giants Willie McCovey, Tom Haller and Jim Davenport will be playing against a team that includes eight players from the Billings-Hutchison Builders team of Marin County in a charity baseball game tomorrow.

The game, slated to start at 1 p.m. at the Diamonds Ballpark in Pittsburg, is for the benefit of Cerebral Palsy.

Members of the Builders team who will be playing on the Minor League team are Ernie Fazio, Ron Cole, Jerry Ard, Walt Williams, Ron Blum, Larry Smoot, Lloyd Dickey and Bob DeRosa.

Lefty O'Doul and Lavagetto will manage the Major League team and Joe Anselmo, manager of the Builders, and Bill Mays, pilot of Milens Jewelers of the Alameda Winter League, will head the Minor League team.

Extensive Fishing Improvements Proposed In Marin

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

An extensive project to improve fishing, cut down pollution and enhance aesthetic values of Papermill Creek has been proposed by the State Department of Fish and Game and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

The project would include Papermill Creek, which empties into the south end of Tomales Bay, part of Tomales Bay itself, and the tributaries, including Lagunitas Creek, San Geronimo Creek, Nicasio Creek and Olema Creek and would also include the Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs.

The creek has been described as a major spawning area for salmon and steelhead trout, and money from funds for inland fisheries development would be used.

Also to be expended would be county fines collected for violations of the fish and game codes. This money is administered in Marin County by the Rod and Gun Club.

A survey of the entire drainage system and a master plan for development would be made, according to the proposal, but several other projects have been listed which could be started sooner.

For instance, a project would be started soon to clear the litter and junk from San Geronimo Creek in Woodacre and Forest Knolls, according to the state report.

An investigation would be made on the possibility of purchasing land along the creek in the area for picnic grounds and roadside rests.

One of the major problems, according to the report, is that water in several sections of the drainage area has been badly polluted by cow manure, especially where feed lots have been bulldozed out of stream bottoms.

Work with the Soil Conservation District and the Farm Bureau would be expected to improve the situation and to protect the stream for fish.

Fish ladders and pools would be created in some places and more public access for fishermen would be obtained.

Particular attention would be made of development near Tomales Bay and of Olema Creek, which runs north along the San Andreas Fault. This area, the report states, will undergo heavy development as the Point Reyes national seashore is made accessible to the public.

The County Parks and Recreation Commission has been considering purchase of the White House Pool area of Papermill Creek, near Point Reyes Station, in order to protect part of the area for recreation and fishing in particular.

One proposal made for action by the water district would be restoration of stream flows below Alpine Dam, thus allowing trout to return to the creek which now runs dry each summer. The flows would require releases of fresh water from Alpine reservoir.

Bruins Blitz Bears, Shoot For Series Sweep Tonight

NEW COACH FOR MARIN SWIM TEAM

Art Octavio, new head coach of the Marin Pirates Swim Club, gives some tips to the club's team captain, Don Keller. Octavio, a native of the Hawaiian Islands, is a former coach in the San Francisco Recreation League and the YMCA. He succeeds Mrs. Dick Read who resigned the post because of family reasons. Octavio plans to conduct a special tryout session next Saturday, 2-4 p.m. at the Drake High School pool in San Anselmo and invites interested young swimmers to try out for the team.

Cal Sadly Learns Why UCLA No. 1

The University of California Bears, who now know why UCLA is ranked number one among the nation's collegiate basketball teams, will get another chance to scar the Bruins' unblemished record tonight—but the chances for success have dropped drastically.

UCLA invaded the Bears' lair last night and romped to an 87-67 victory, which stretched the Bruins' undefeated string to 18 games and gave them a 7-0 record in Big Six Conference competition. California dropped into second place with a 5-2 mark.

The two teams will go at it again at Berkeley tonight, while the remainder of Big Six action takes place up north. Stanford (4-3) winds up a pair of contests at Washington State (1-6), and USC (1-6) closes out a two-game series at Washington (3-4).

In West Coast Athletic Conference play, Loyola (2-2) is at St. Mary's (1-3); Santa Clara (1-2) plays at San Jose State (2-1); University of Pacific (3-1) hosts Pepperdine (0-4), and University of San Francisco (4-0) moves to Cal at Santa Barbara (0-0). Santa Barbara is the newest member of the WCAC, but its games do not count in the conference standings this season.

HAZZARD BRILLIANT

The brilliant all-around play of Walt Hazzard and the sharpshooting of Gail Goodrich sparked UCLA to victory over Cal last night. Hazzard collected 13 assists with his neat passing and hit 21 points, while Goodrich led all scorers with 26.

The blazing, fast-breaking Bruins hit on 32 of 51 field goal attempts for a 61 per cent average before an awed capacity crowd of 7,100 partisan Cal fans.

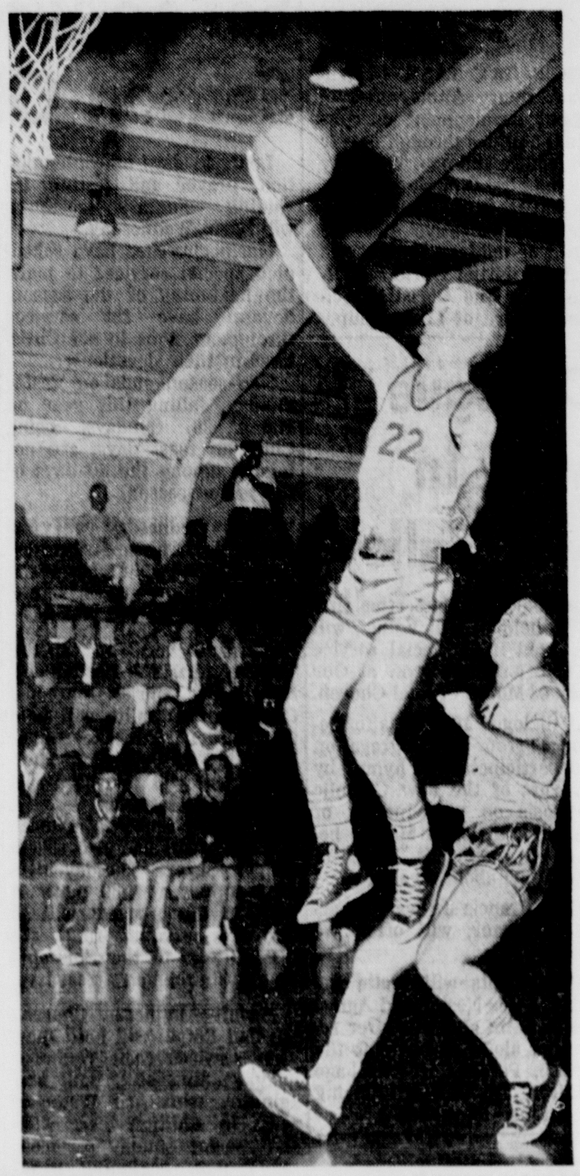

Dan Lufkin hit 19 for the Bears, who managed to hold their own in the first half but ran into trouble when three starters fouled out in the second half.

STANFORD WINS

Up in Pullman, the Stanford Indians managed to overcome a 31-point scoring spree by Washington State's Byron Vadset to down the Cougars, 80-69. Stanford's scoring ace, Tom Dose, led the Indians with 19.

There were only two games in the WCAC last night. The University of Pacific walloped Loyola, 94-65, and St. Mary's finally posted its second victory of the season by defeating Pepperdine, 70-56.

MARINERS ROMP PAST NAPA CHIEFS

College of Marin's Rich Abbott closely guards Napa Chiefs' Mike Golomb (with ball) in this fourth period action (upper left) of their Golden Valley Conference game at Drake High last night. Marin knocked off the previously-undefeated Chiefs, 101-86 to throw the conference championship race wide open. At right, Marin's Jay Johnson leaps high to score on a fast break, giving the Tars a 31-25 edge in the second quarter which they expanded to 57-37 by halftime. Napa's Jeff Louden tries in vain to halt Johnson's drive. Story on page 10. (Dave Mayhew photos)

MARIN SPORTS IN-BRIEF

Final regatta in the Corinthian Yacht Club's five-part midwinter series will be held tomorrow in San Francisco Bay—and fair skies are predicted.

All starts and finishes will be off the Corinthian clubhouse in Tiburon with the Pacific Clipper and Acorn classes initiating the action at 11:30 a.m., followed by other groupings at five-minute intervals.

In many of the classes and divisions, the series championships hinge on the outcome of tomorrow's results.

Because of the remodeling of the clubhouse, now in progress, the trophy presentation party which was scheduled for tomorrow evening has been postponed.

3 Marin Anglers Catch Winners

Three Marin County Fishermen were among the winners in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club striped bass contest for the last reported week.

Marty Medin of Point Reyes Station caught a 29-pound whopper in Tomales Bay, Herb Pilcher of Corte Madera hooked a 21-pound winner near China Camp, and Tauno V. Sjoblom of Novato hauled in a 20-pounder from San Pablo Bay.

Mrs. May Wins In Mill Valley Golf

Mrs. William May stroked a 77 yesterday to win the trophy for the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club. With her 12-stroke handicap, Mrs. May had a net of 65.

Winners were:

Class A—Mrs. May, 77-12—65; Mrs. Tom Keigwin, 89-17—72; Mrs. George Prydz, 87-13—74.

Class B—Mrs. Henry Helmboldt, 94-21—73; Mrs. Helvetia Walker, 95-21—74; Mrs. Bill Brown, 95-21—74.

Class C—Mrs. Joel Hamby, 101-29—72; Mrs. Parker Archer, 109-36—73; Mrs. Bruno Maraccini, 107-32—75.

Little League Officers Elect

The new officers and directors of the Greenbrae-Kentfield Little League have scheduled a meeting with team managers on Feb. 10, 8 p.m., in the Kent School library.

Elected president of the little league at a recent meeting was George Renworth. Other officers elected were Farr Danford, vice president; Harold Breithaupt, secretary, and Don MacDonnell, treasurer.

Directors elected were Dave Anker, Bill Filante, Dick Naylor, Roger Graham, Robert Smith, Boyd Quinn, Harold Haas, Lou Cabella, Warren Heiman, Dale Norton, Ralph Lindsey, Dean Hartman and DeWitt MacDonald.

San Anselmo Man Teaches Gun Safety

R. W. Morgan of 42 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, has been appointed a home firearms safety instructor, it was announced today by the National Rifle Assn.

The NRA is sponsor of the course to help reduce shooting accidents in the home. The course promotes safety among those who normally do not use firearms for recreation but have them in their home.

HEY, VOTERS, YOU CAN JUST CALL ME 'BUD'

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Former Oklahoma football coach Charles Burnham Wilkinson has asked District Court to change his name to one already familiar to football fans—Bud Wilkinson.

Wilkinson is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate. His petition said he has been known as Bud Wilkinson for many years to family, friends, football fans and writers.

Wilkinson was one of the most successful coaches in the history of collegiate football until he resigned recently to turn to politics.

JV, Freshmen Scores

Marin Catholic High School junior varsity defeated Redwood 52-43 and the Redwood freshmen trimmed Marin 38-30 in their basketball action yesterday.

Lema Heads Tightly Packed Field In Phoenix Tourney

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema, campaigning to become the first double winner of the winter golf trail, carried a one-stroke lead into today's third round of the $50,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

One stroke behind Lema's six-under-par 136 were a half dozen players—U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, British Open king Bob Charles, Jack Nicklaus, George Bayer, Gary Player and unheralded Bobby Brue.

The traffic jam at the top found no fewer than 18 within three strokes of the leader and jockeying today for the lead.

This gathering did not include Arnold Palmer, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth straight Phoenix Open crown He is six strokes back at even par 142 for the 36 holes along with six others.

Loma, annoyed by amateur cameramen, shot his second straight three-under-par 68 over the Phoenix Club course for his 136. His card for yesterday's round included an eagle, five birdies and four bogies.

Grouped at 138 were Don January, who fired a tourney best 64 yesterday; Dave Marr; Bob Rosburg; first round leader Don Fairfield, who posted a one-over-par 72 yesterday; Don Whitt and Herman Scharlau.

Gene Littler, Bob Nichols, Bernard Hunt, Rex Baxter, Frank Beard and Gay Brewer were next at 139.

Novato Wins In Practice

Novato High School's cage team, getting a bye in Marin Athletic League action, made an impressive win last night over Galileo of San Francisco, 64-62, in a practice game on the Novato Hornet's floor.

Nick Willard with 25 points led the Hornet attack, with Barry Hachmyer adding 14 and Fred Arnold tallying 13.

It was a come-from-behind effort on the part of the Hornets who were trailing 28-24 at the half. But a 26-point third quarter for Novato gave it the margin of victory.

The Novato Class B cagers won their eighth straight game, nipping the Galileo lightweights 38-36. Tom Corder with 10 points led the junior Hornets attack.

THURSDAY TALK — William Henry Alton will talk about development of spiritual abilities through prayer in lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, San Rafael. A former oil executive and veteran of military intelligence service during World War II, he is on the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Dialogue Mass In Mill Valley

A dialogue Mass, the first to be held in Mill Valley, will be given in a special service at 8:45 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.

A dialogue Mass calls for responses from the congregation and participation in hymns by all. Part of the new Catholic emphasis on participation of the laity, dialogue Masses began at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael about a year ago.

Rev. Francis J. Scanlon, assistant pastor, will offer the Mass.

Participants will recite the Kyrie, Pater Noster and Agnus Dei in Latin and will offer responses aloud throughout the service. Parents of school-age children are especially being encouraged to attend.

Lutherans Told Of New Challenge

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI) — A National Lutheran Council official said Wednesday that transitional forces at work in American society pose new challenges and opportunities for the church.

But Dr. Robert W. Long of Chicago warned the church that to take advantage of these forces it must leave the past behind and adjust with the times.

Long, executive secretary of the NLC's division of American missions, told the 46th annual meeting of the NLC there appears to be a need for "new types of ministries and new directions for Christian witness."

Long described areas of major transition in 1963 as the changes in urban population, the intensified civil rights movement and the effect of automation on employment.

"As new patterns emerge," he said, "the church must adjust its institutional forms to what is new rather than wait for the return of what will never be again."

Long noted the "movement toward complete desegregation of the structures of American society reached new heights during the year." He said many churches were finding it difficult to integrate their congregations because of a lack of understanding between the races."

Italian Speaker

Rev. Sixtus Cavagnaro, Italian missionary, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday during the Italian Mission at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. The mission will end with a Communion next Sunday at the church and a breakfast at Portuguese American Hall, San Rafael.

Marin Churches Set Services For Season Of Lent

Lent, 40 days of contemplation, prayer and fasting, including voluntary sacrifices, will begin Wednesday.

Marin churches have scheduled special services to mark the beginning of the season. Several have set services throughout Lent to aid Christians in their devotions.

The season ends on Easter Sunday, falling this year on March 29. Sundays, being Christian feast days, are not totaled among the 40 days of the lenten season.

Ash Wednesday will be marked in Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches with distribution of ashes, signifying the season of penance.

Tuesday will be Shrove Tuesday, marking the day before Lent. Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito will hold its traditional pancake supper beginning at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. There will also be a special children's service.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael has also scheduled a Shrove Tuesday pancake supper at 6:30 p.m. A tenth of the proceeds will go into the operating fund, the rest will go to the Episcopal Young Churchmen's treasury.

Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael will hold special services each Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. beginning with Ash Wednesday. In addition there will be special Sunday services at 7 p.m. beginning next Sunday. The services will include singing of hymns and discussion of faith.

Grace Lutheran Church in Novato will hold Ash Wednesday service at 7:30 p.m. It will combine the lenten observance with the World Day of Prayer service. There will be subsequent Wednesday services through Lent.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo will sponsor a series of courses on the six Wednesdays of Lent beginning this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. They will deal with the inner life of the church and the church's role in community life.

Holy Innocent's Episcopal Church in Corte Madera will hold Communion services at 6:30 and 11:15 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Wednesday with a prayer service at 10:15 a.m., a ministry of healing at noon and children's vespers at 4:30 p.m.

Throughout Lent the church has scheduled a 6:30 a.m. Communion on Tuesdays with a seminar on Christian living by Professor Yates Greer at 8 p.m. Tuesdays. There will be a prayer workshop at 8 p.m. Wednesdays, a Communion service at 7 a.m. Fridays and confessions at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. Saturdays.

Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera will have an 8 p.m. service Ash Wednesday and each following Wednesday during Lent.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael will have Communions at 6:30 and 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Ash Wednesday. Throughout the remainder of the season there will be services at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

In addition, the church has scheduled a series of talks at 8 p.m. Feb. 19 and 26 and March 4 and 11 at 8 p.m. by Rev. George Tittmann, rector of St. Mark's Church, Berkeley.

Peace Lutheran Church south of Mill Valley will hold a service at 8 p.m. Ash Wednesday and each Wednesday after at that time until Easter week.

At the Dominican Priory, 217 Laurel Grove, Kentfield, Rev. Antoninus Wall will conduct a series of lectures through Lent on Monday evenings. First lecture will be at 8 p.m. Monday.

Catholic churches throughout the Bay Area will observe next Sunday, the first Sunday in Lent, as Charity Sunday. This is when yearly contributions are made to the Catholic Charities Appeal.

HE TELLS LONG AND SHORT OF KEEPING COOL

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—An Anglican clergyman at Nelspruit, east of Johannesburg, has bravely confessed that in this country's frequent hot weather he wears shorts, instead of the more customary black pants, under his cassock.

Now the Rev. R. E. V. Taylor is encouraging members of his congregation to wear cool clothes on warm Sundays because he believes comfortably clad church-goers can give more sincere attention to their devotions.

The Dean of Johannesburg, the Rt. Rev. P. H. F. Barron, who supports Taylor, said: "Some of my congregation come to church in sports clothes. I'd rather they came dressed like that than not come to church at all."

ON MISSIONS—Dr. Richard Hamilton Baird, a veteran of missionary service in Korea, will speak at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, at 9 and 11:15 a.m. tomorrow. He is western area representative of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church.

Chaplain Survives Course

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — "The Army chaplain cannot serve his men from an office in the chapel," says Capt. Norman Walker.

Guided by the principle, Chaplain Walker joined the U. S. Army Rangers, a tough outfit renowned for its rugged training.

"To be effective, today's chaplain must meet the challenge of what I call 'the ministry of thereness'—of being where the men are," Walker said.

Walker, 34, will go to Korea later this year. The Mississippi native entered the nine-week Ranger course at Ft. Benning, Ga., "to get a better understanding of what the men must go through."

He became the second chaplain in the school's history to complete the training. All rank and insignia removed, the men learn hand-to-hand combat, techniques of survival and protection in swamps, mountains and other rugged terrain.

"I must make it clear that I have no anticipation of bearing arms or of being in a combat situation," Walker said.

"The training gave me a tremendous insight into the problems of the average soldier, a rapport with the men I serve."

Chaplains, Pastors Meet Opens

Mission Board's Yearly Conference Held At Strawberry

Ten chaplains, pastors and professors are on the roster of participants at a three-day conference opening at the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry, Tuesday.

The conference, sponsored by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, has a theme this year entitled "Communicating the Christian Gospel in a Time of Social Crisis."

Those participating will be:

Eric C. Rust, professor of Christian Philosophy at Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Harold F. Menges, naval chaplain with the Air Command, Pacific Fleet, San Diego.

Caryle D. Bennett, professor of music administration at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary.

George W. Cummins, director of the division of chaplaincy, Home Mission Board.

W. A. Carleton, dean and vice president of the Golden Gate seminary; Gaines S. Dobbins, professor of religious education and church administration at the seminary; James W. McClendon, associate professor of theology and philosophy of religion at the seminary; J. Winston Pearce, professor of preaching and Christian ethics at the seminary; Lyn Elder, professor of pastoral psychology at the seminary, and Harold K. Graves, president of the seminary.

BIBLE STUDY AT BREAKFAST FOR NEW GROUP

A Bible study group to meet at 7 a.m. each Tuesday is being formed in Marin County. First meeting will be this Tuesday in the Villa Restaurant, San Rafael.

First discussions will center on biblical passages relating Christian ethics to business and public affairs.

Organizers of the layman group are Jack Craemer, Dale Hitzeman, Louis Mountanos and Mark Walker. They invite all Christian laymen who are interested to attend.

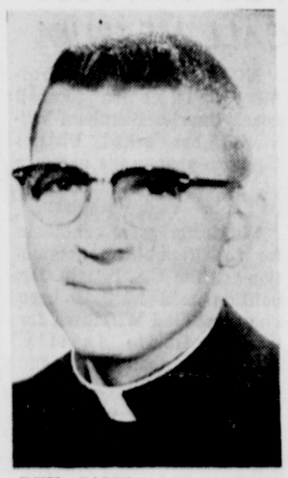

BRONZE DOORS FOR CHURCH

Rev. John C. Petroni, assistant at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael, watches Frank Milani, co-owner of Milani Studios in San Jose, make delicate adjustments in 2½-ton, cast bronze doors recently installed at the church. Designed by Francis A. Constable of Sausalito, the doors were cast in Florence, Italy. Symbols include the emblem of St. Raphael, the fish and the pouch, and the emblem of the Archdiocese of San Francisco, the arm and hand of Christ and the arm and hand of St. Francis. Three Marist Fathers Ordained

The first three deacons to graduate from St. Peter Chanel College Seminary in San Rafael were ordained as Marist Fathers in ceremonies at the seminary today.

The three are Rev. Robert Haggett, 27, of San Francisco; Rev. James Rodenspiel, 26, of Nampa, Idaho, and Rev. Gabriel Ormonde, 28, of Newark, Alameda County.

They will be ordained by Most Rev. Leo Lemay, vicar apostolie of the North Solomon Islands, Territory of New Guinea.

The three graduated from St. Peter Chanel Seminary in 1957. They finished philosophical and theological studies at the Immaculate Heart Major Seminary of the University of San Diego.

They will be assigned parish, school and missionary work in the San Francisco Western Province of the Marist Fathers. The order's vocation concentrates on school and missionary work.

SMOKER'S DEFENSE

Tobacco 1st Forum Topic

Sin and the weed, a smoker's right of free choice, health and tobacco—

These are just a few of the topics that may come out of an experimental session sponsored by the Marin Center of the United Jewish Community Centers in San Rafael.

Called Forum, the first session will open at the center at 8 p.m. Thursday with a discussion entitled "Is Smoking a Social Disease?"

The idea, as center director Marvin Bienstock explains, is to promote discussion by small groups—15 to 20 persons—on controversial and topical subjects.

Thursday's session will give the dedicated smoker a chance to defend his habit. It will also give non-smokers and medical men a chance to air their views.

"The essential goal of Forum is to offer a platform for individuals to state and clarify their opinions on controversial issues. The center hopes to retain a neutral attitude and serve only in the capacity of deciding on the particular issue to be discussed at a session and on who the discussion leader will be," Bienstock said.

"While Forum will be officially scheduled on the second Thursday of each month, we intend to be flexible enough to hold additional meetings as important issues arise. We would consider the program a success if we began to receive phone calls suggesting topics and asking for the opportunity to participate.

"We have called Forum an experiment in communication because we feel that in this highly specialized society there is a genuine need for individuals to discuss topics on which they have opinions but not necessarily expert knowledge. Moreover, there is need for the expert to meet the public on an equal ground where his ideas can be freely challenged."

5 Lenten Lectures Will Be Presented

A series of five Lenten lectures will be presented each Tuesday at 11 a.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church, Ross, starting Feb. 18.

Sponsored by the Episcopal Churchwomen of the church, the meetings will be held in the Parish House. Dr. Gordon C. Oxtoby, professor at the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, will conduct the series. Title is "The Law, the Prophets and the Christian Gospel."

Day Of Prayer

The Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday in observance of the World Day of Prayer.

Boy Scout Sunday

The Novato Community Methodist Church will mark Boy Scout Sunday with a special sermon by Pastor Warren W. Peters at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow.

Rabbi To Meeting

Julian Mack and Rabbi Morton Hoffman will represent Temple Rodef Sholom, Santa Venetia, at a conference on Judaism and Peace in San Francisco tomorrow. The conference will attract representatives of more than 50 Northern California temples and synagogues.

Annual World Day Of Prayer At Church

An annual World Day of Prayer will be observed at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, at 1 p.m. Friday.

The meeting, sponsored by the United Church Women of Southern Marin, will include a talk on prayer by Mrs. Charles Smith, vice president of the Northern California United Church Women.

VIEW HOMES IN THE ROLLING HILLS OF MARIN

3 and 4 Bedrooms • 2 Baths • Family Room

General Electric Kitchen

PRICES START AT $32,000

BEST FINANCING TERMS AVAILABLE

Nestled in the rolling hills of Marin, overlooking the beautiful bay, these magnificent homes present an exciting new adventure in luxurious living. Unique new designs offer a multitude of choices for your comfort and pleasure. In a most interesting plan, an entirely new concept in home design, the activity room and guest room are located in a separate area of the home . . . insuring absolute privacy. For gracious hospitality, some plans have formal dining rooms . . . with a step down to the living areas and family rooms. The fireplaces are large, distinctive and attractive.

But . . . WHERE you live is just as important as HOW you live, and this complete community offers you every city advantage . . . almost at your doorstep.

The regional shopping center includes Purity Super Market, banks, drugstore and restaurant, and others. Under construction is the Emporium's new installation and coming off the plans board shortly will be Roos-Atkin's new location. In addition are churches, medical and dental facilities and a well equipped hospital.

Minutes away is the Marin County Civic Center, a Northern California landmark designed by Frank Lloyd Wright.

Your Children, no matter what age (elementary, junior and senior high), are off to school and back again with no commuting problems.

There are recreational activities for the entire family. You and your children will enjoy swimming, golfing, boating, horseback riding, Pony and Little League baseball, and Pop Warner football.

Poems Written Like Beatnik By Computer

NEW YORK (UPI) — At a data processing center on New York's bustling Wall Street a group of engineers stopped in their tracks.

Had one of their computers busted a circuit?

From out of the mouth of the electronic marvel came potry —real beatnik stuff. To wit:

"Our bloom flayedevilly through ugly bodies
And water loomed evilly o'er inhuman loves
Your dream blazedfreely round ugly hovels
A foe itched"

And . . .

"The stars flayed slowly upon furtive bodies
And light flayed blindly o'er crowded faces
While gloom blazed foully from broken loves
Our genes giggled."

Shades of T. S. Eliot?

Not exactly. About a year ago, Clair Phillippy, 26-year-old RCA computer specialist at Lancaster, Pa., looked at his computer and got an idea. If the brainy machine could turn out figures on blanks why not blank verse?

Phillippy got up a basic vocabulary of 100 words which he fed with some minor instructions to his machine. He separated the words accordingly, into nouns, adjectives, verbs and adverbs, and instructed the machine to come up with a four-line verse, allowing 70 words for the initial three lines and 30 words for the final punch line.

The result is poetry. Or so claim Phillippy's bosses with a smile. "The poems are at times reminiscent of Donne, Blake and such modern poets as Eliot and Cummings," they announced to the world.

Phillippy himself doesn't like poety — I've never like it," he declared during a visit to New York to demonstrate the technique.

To date, Phillippy and the RCA 301 computer have produced more than 4,000 selections of beatnik verse.

They Call It A Dog's Life In Soviet Union

MOSCOW (UPI) — Canine figures are hard to come by in Russia but it doesn't take a statistical expert to notice that the Soviet dog population and variety of breeds are far below that of America. By law, such few dogs as there are must always be kept on leashes.

Reasons for the low dog population are several. Many Russians take a utilitarian attitude toward man's best friend, looking upon him as mainly a hunter or watchdog. This attitude is changing slightly. Whereas in past years dog shows were held only for hunting and watchdogs, now there are entries for "decorativny" (decorative) types.

Also there is an Oriental strain in Russians, and Asians have never domesticated dogs in the same number as in the West.

Further, few average Russians really have time to look after a pet dog — especially where man and wife are both breadwinners, and lastly . . . space. When whole families are cooped in one or two rooms, as is frequently true, there is little desire to make room for "Putsch" (Russian equivalent of Rover).

Bolinas Water Bids Are Opened

Bids on three projects for water improvement by Bolinas Beach Public Utility District were opened yesterday, but will not be let pending a review by the district engineer.

A spokesman said low bid on a mile and a half of 10-inch pipe was D. D. Altermatt of Kentfield, $42,124.76. Fifteen bids were received.

Lowest of eight bids on a 400,000-gallon water tank was Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. of San Francisco, $24,920. Bank of California was lowest of four bidders on purchasing $75,000 in bonds with a bid of 3.7 per cent interest rate.

The bonds were approved by district voters last Nov. 5.

STEEL UP FOR GYM

The steel frame for the College of Marin's new gymnasium takes shape on the Kentfield campus. The 1.6-million-dollar project, planned for several years, will replace the old gymnasium that burned down last fall. (Independent-Journal photo)

This Air Force Outfit Moved Bahama Islands

TURNER AIR FORCE BASE, Ga. (AP)—Moving the Grand Bahama Island could be listed as one accomplishment for the men of the 1370th.

The shift was done on maps after the Atlantic Missile Range was surveyed by the 1370th Photo Mapping Wing of the Air Photographic and Charting Service.

This project, born of need to meet precise guidance requirements of missiles, sharpened considerably the accuracy of the Atlantic range by uncovering mapping errors.

They found Grand Bahama six miles out of position on maps then in use; Cuba misplaced by sixth-tenths of a mile and other points erroneously located on maps.

One major survey of the 1370th was charting of the North Atlantic to link accurately the North American and European continents. Covering 2,000 miles, it was accurate within 34 feet.

"It provides the basic geodetic link for our missile strategy," said Col. Kendall S. Young, commander of the 1370th.

From polar icecaps to desolate peaks in South America; from New Guinea jungles to barren Pacific atolls—the men of the 1370th measure the world, bit by bit.

Sometimes it's lonely.

"For five months I saw only one bird," said M/Sgt. Thomas Fentin telling of his experiences on Greenland's icecap. Ground crews of three men usually spend about three months at a station, living in tents.

Sometimes there's too much company.

"A whole tribe of natives, painted and armed with spears, bows and arrows, surrounded our three-man station on an island near New Guinea," Col. Hugh W. Bell said.

"They were obviously disturbed about something."

So were the three Air Force crewmen.

"To keep the tribesmen from exploding, the ground crew gave away nearly all their food," Bell said.

The men of the 1370th still have plenty of work ahead. Only about 40 per cent of the globe has been mapped.

S.R. Missilemen In Cage Victory

For the sixth consecutive year the 40th Artillary Brigade's Missilemen of the San Francisc Bay Area defeated the 47th Brigade of Los Angeles for the Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command basketball championships at the Presidio, San Francisco.

The scores for the three games were 86-69, 82-60 and 77-57 with the final game played last night.

San Rafael's Battery C. Second Missile Battalion, 51st Artillary, contributed heavily to the victory with SP4 Donald E. Moore the tournament's top scorer with 58 points. Also representing the San Rafael Nike site were 1st Lt. Barry R. Cristina, 1st Lt. Howard Lack, Pfc. Vincent J. Belli and Pfc. Wayne C. Robertson.

Corona To Discuss Bonds On KCBS

Supt. Bert C. Corona of San Rafael City Schools will be interviewed on Radio Station KCBS at 2 p.m. Monday in a discussion of school bond issues.

He will speak both about school bonds in general and about $3,970,000 bond issues before voters of the San Rafael Elementary School District Feb. 18. KCBS broadcasts at 74 kilocycles on AM and at 98.9 megocycles on FM.

Fay Is Elected Class President -'For Keeps'

Gary Fay of Strawberry was elected sophomore class president at Tamalpais High School "for keeps" yesterday after beating fellow contestant Ernie Bergman of Mill Valley. Vote counts were not given, as per school custom.

Fay won after three elections over a two-week period and two mixups in which ballots were either misplaced or lost. Said Fay: "I was more thrilled this time than when I won last Monday." (He was president for three hours last Monday.)

Now, added Fay, 15, we have to get to work on a sophomore-sponsored dance to raise funds for the class.

POSING in front of the box-office of their Gate Theater on Sausalito's Bridgeway are Irish-born actress Mary Rose McMaster and her actor-director husband, Jack Aranson. Currently playing in the theater is "Playboy of the Western World." She's One Of The Irish 'Barrymores'

Mary Rose Hails From A Famous Acting Family

By DON KEOWN

Dublin-born actress Mary Rose McMaster says there is a world of difference between Irish and American theater patrons.

"In Ireland, the theater is a vital part of the people's lives," she explains, "while in America, the people have to be pushed into theater-going."

"Here an actor is regarded as an oddball," she goes on, "while in Ireland, the successful actor is a highly respected, often adored celebrity."

MARY ROSE is the daughter of one such celebrity, the late Anew McMaster, who headed his own traveling repertory company of Shakespearean players. He was idolized, his daughter recalls, by Dublin audiences and by the residents of Irish hamlets alike.

Mary Rose began her theater career at the age of 11 when she began traveling with her father's company. She has since played in England, all the Scandinavian countries, the Paris Festival in France, Belgium, Germany, Canada, Australia and, of course, Ireland and the U. S.

Off stage, she is now Mrs. Jack Aranson of Mill Valley, the blonde and pretty mother of four children ranging in age from 8 years to 11 months.

IT IS IN AN EFFORT to stimulate among Marinites some of the feeling of the Irish for drama that the Aransons launched their continuing series of weekend plays in Sausalito's old waterfront Gate Theater on Bridgeway. "Playboy of the Western World" is now playing there on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m.

Mary Rose believes that since she and her actor-director husband came to the Bay Area, Marinites have become increasingly theater conscious. They were generally pleased with attendance for their previous production, Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice."

"It's an uphill struggle," she admits. "But you do the best you can, and eventually people will come."

THE ARANSONS welcome the current seasonal resurgence of little theater activity in the county.

"The more, the merrier," Mary Rose says with her delightful lilt. "It all serves to make people alive to the theater."

Why such a noticeable difference in the Irish and American attitudes toward theater?

A key factor, she believes, is that "Americans have a great deal of entertainment in their lives," whereas in Ireland, there was much less competition for the people's interest and patronage.

"HERE THE people talk sports or politics or about the TV shows. In Ireland, the conversations of the people on the street, from factory worker on up, are more likely to be about the theater, the actors and the playwrights."

"WHAT SPOTTED THE SKIRT OF MY TWO-PIECE DRESS?"

The spots which you say were not there when you sent your skirt to the cleaner probably were not visable. They are typical of what is known as oxidized oil stains, so named because the oil causing the stain is capable of taking on oxygen from the air and forming an insoluable resin. Linseed oil, cooking oil, mayonnaise and salad dressing are examples of oils of this type.

You can honestly say that the stain was not there when you sent it to your cleaner, nor did he see it. Apparently it had not oxidized enough to be noticed, but complete oxidization may take place in the cleaning process. Usually, because the resins that are formed are insoluable, such stains cannot be removed. However, consult your dry-cleaner. He may be able to lessen the stain, but extreme care must be exercised to prevent loss of color in the skirt.

ing fewer pictures, Americans are becoming somewhat more aware of the legitimate stage, she feels.

Mary Rose has her roots deep in the theater. Not only is she the daughter of one actor and the wife of another, but she is the niece of still another immortal of the Irish stage, Michael MacLimmoir, who originated the Gate Theater in Dublin. And his sister and Mary Rose's mother was herself a popular actress under the name of Marjory Willmore.

BUT IT IS the affection which Irish theater - goers held for her father that Mary Rose remembers best.

Until she was 11, she lived with relatives while her parents traveled with the theater company. Then the McMasters made a decision. Touring and experience in the classical theater would be more valuable for their daughter, they decided, than further formal schooling. Mary Rose joined the company, and never again attended a regular school.

Those were the World War II years, and the company's travels were by then restricted to Ireland.

BUT THE troupe traveled the length and breadth of that island, appearing in large city theaters and in village halls alike.

The company toured the entire year except for two or three weeks' rest at Christmas time, and another week off at Easter. There were performances seven nights a week, plus two matinees.

"We had a true repertory program," Mary Rose says, "with 12 or 14 plays, seven or eight of which were Shakespeare, and the remainder Greek tragedy or modern plays by such writers as Shaw and Wilde."

MARY ROSE began by playing walk-on bits. Gradually she worked up to more responsible roles until, at 16,

An Actor's Daughter Continues Family Tradition In Marin

Mary Rose McMaster Reflects Talent And Training Of Father

AN EXPRESSIVE and sensitive face is even more important to the actress than the authenticity of her costume in portraying a role. Mary Rose McMaster is seen here as she appeared in the title role of a production of August Strindberg's "Miss Julie" at the Gaiety Theater in her native Dublin. (Photo by Anthony Higgins)

she was cast as Ophelia in "Hamlet."

"But I did far more than just act," she remembers. "We all had our other jobs as well. So I had to learn how to put up sets, how to connect up the lighting, how to fold and pack costumes and so forth."

Everywhere they went, she recalls, her father was treated as a visiting dignitary.

SHE DESCRIBES him as "the perfect teacher. He was a perfectionist, yet not a martinet. Casual in manner, he knew how to achieve what he wanted without resorting to fuss or bullying."

Anew McMaster died a year and a half ago. His widow still resides in Ireland. And Mary Rose's brother, Christopher, the only other child, is now a television director in England.

Of Marin, Mary Rose says: "Physically, it is very much like Ireland in many respects."

And if the people differ in their attitude toward the theater, Mary Rose still finds them most likeable.

"I LOVE Marin. And I like its people. That, no doubt, is probably the reason why we are so determined to succeed with what we are attempting at the Gate."

She adds that husband Jack Aranson is a native Californian, "so this has been a homecoming for him."

"The moment we saw the Gate," she says, "we decided this was the place for us, if we could make a living from the theater here."

FOR THE current production of "Playboy of the Western World," Mary Rose designed the costumes. She is not appearing on stage.

"With four children to take care of at home, I overdid things for awhile," she says. "Now I've been told to take a bit of a rest."

But it is safe to say that in the not too distant future, Mary Rose will be back behind the footlights at the Gate, carrying on in her mission to make theater the exciting event for Marinites that it is in the Emerald Isle.

THE HUSBAND-AND-WIFE team of Jack Aranson and Mary Rose McMaster has been praised by critics in both Ireland and U.S. for their "All the World's a Stage," program of speeches and scenes from Shakespeare. (Photo by Anthony Higgins)

THIS PHOTOGRAPH OF Jack Aranson and Mary Rose McMaster with a pet was taken in Dublin's famed Gate Theater shortly before their marriage. TIPS ON EASY LIVING

East Harbor Estates– Marin's finest Condominium.

Is your leisure spent in fun activities–or does "homework" swamp you? When you want to read a good book, nap in a sunny garden, spend extra time at golf or travel...does a guilty conscience prod you to go weed the garden? Fix the gate? Clean the pool? Then condominium ownership is for you.

If you're tired of playing nursemaid to a house and garden, investigate East Harbor Estates...Marin's finest...where you eliminate these chores through condominium ownership.

With neighbors to share the cost, you hire out the gardening, the pool cleaning, the building maintenance. It costs surprisingly little. And you are free to relax beside the pool while somebody else weeds the garden.

As a "chore-free" owner of a condominium residence, you retain all of the owner's advantages of income tax deductions and accumulation of equity. You buy, refinance or sell independently of your neighbors.

Yet those same neighbors share with you the cost of swimming pool, oriental garden and "tea house." Your swimming pool becomes a real bargain when you have full use of it but pay only 1/50th of its cost.

In ordinary home buying, incidentally, there are many quite expensive "extras" such as drapes and carpeting, a new refrigerator, laundry equipment, garden installation. But every one of these "extras" is included in the basic condominium price, and may be financed at a low 5¾% interest rate.

Condominium homes may be had in compact one-bedroom units with large living rooms and fully equipped electric kitchens, priced from $14,950. Also 2 bd/2 bath units from $18,950. A few very large 3 bd/2 bath homes include fireplaces, and private sun decks from $24,650.

Financing is the best...5¾% loans for 25 year terms are available to qualified buyers. Or, if cash is a problem, secondary financing may be arranged.

If funds are frozen in your present house, we will guarantee its sale within 60 days, or buy it from you at a pre-arranged net price. No uncertainty! No delay! Buy your condominium home today, confident that funds will be available when you need them. Ask the salesman for details.

Santa Venetia's School Links History, English

TEAM TEACHING of American history and literature takes place twice a week for 95 Santa Venetia Junior High School eighth graders from three classes when they gather in the multi-purpose room for coordinated lectures. The teachers are, left to right, Mrs. Margaret W. Scott, Vice Principal Virgil M. Birdsall and Frederick E. Goodwin. The pictorial map on the wall depicts the literary development of the United States. (Independent-Journal photos)

February, birth month of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, is traditionally the time when the U.S. pays special tribute to its patriots.

Recent tragic events have also aroused particular interest in the education of our young citizens to their heritage and responsibilities as Americans.

THIS, THEN, is an appropriate time for an examination of the measures taken by one San Rafael City School to meet that concern of educators and parents on the problem of the grounding of children in the basic principles of their American heritage.

Santa Venetia Junior High School has developed an unusual course for its eighth graders, correlating American history and English, and taught by history instructor Frederick Goodwin and English teachers Mrs. Margaret Scott and Virgil Birdsall.

Mrs. Scott and Goodwin initiated the course three years ago on the basic premise that youth cannot be expected "to show and feel patriotism unless they know something about it."

FURTHERMORE, according to Goodwin, the group agreed to "attempt to show reasons and causes behind great events and movements, rather than simply cover them as an historical event with a date to be memorized."

The English teachers, Mrs. Scott states, believed that this goal could be accomplished in line with their basic instruction in grammar, sentence structure, composition, punctuation mechanics and literature.

To accomplish these goals, the teachers decided to base their classes upon the original texts of American historical documents.

WHEN A SEARCH failed to turn up such a text suitable for the eighth grade students, the teachers compiled their own, in typewritten binders, which has now grown from 150 to 350 pages. Included are selections from original documents by Capt. John Smith, William Byrd, Ben Franklin, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Paine, Philip Freneau, Washington Irving and others, covering a period from 1607 to the Civil War.

The program is offered to about 95 students in three classes. They attend their separate classes in English and history daily, then meet together twice a week for a combined lecture on material relevant to the area in American history and literature currently under study.

The team teaching effort requires close cooperation by the teachers, so that while the students in English classer are reading and analyzing selections from the letters of George Washington, or the "Federalists Papers" by James Madison, John Jay and Alexander Hamilton, the same pupils are studying the history of the American Revolution, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and related documents.

MRS. SCOTT points out that, in addition to the obvious advantages of this program, students develop an added insight into the American language by noting the evolution in style and structure through selections beginning with "The Founding of Jamestown" by Capt. John Smith and progressing to Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" and the 19th century classics of Mark Twain.

By the end of the year, Mrs. Scott will have also introduced students to American poetry ranging from the works of William Cullen Bryant to the late Robert Frost of the 20th century.

The binder anthology compiled by the teachers has now been amplified by a number of class sets of paperbacks such as "The Federalists Papers," Littlefield, Adams and Co., edition of "Basic American Documents," Stephen Crane's "Red Badge of Courage," Booker T. Washington's "Up From Slavery," John F. Kennedy's "Profiles of Courage," Mark Twain's "Life On the Mississippi," and "Huckleberry Finn," plus a complete set of the Barnes and Noble edition of "Original Narratives of Early American History," edited by J. F. Jameson.

HISTORY AND English pupils in the correlated program compile notebooks for both classes based on such required reading as selections from "Basic American Documents" including the 1606 "First Charter of Virginia," "Mayflower Compact," "Declaration of Independence," and "Treaty of Peace With Great Britain;" and "Narratives of Witchcraft Cases," Winthrop's journal of the "History of New England," "Narratives of New Netherlands," Bradford's "History of Plymouth Plantations," "Early Narratives of the Northwest," and many others.

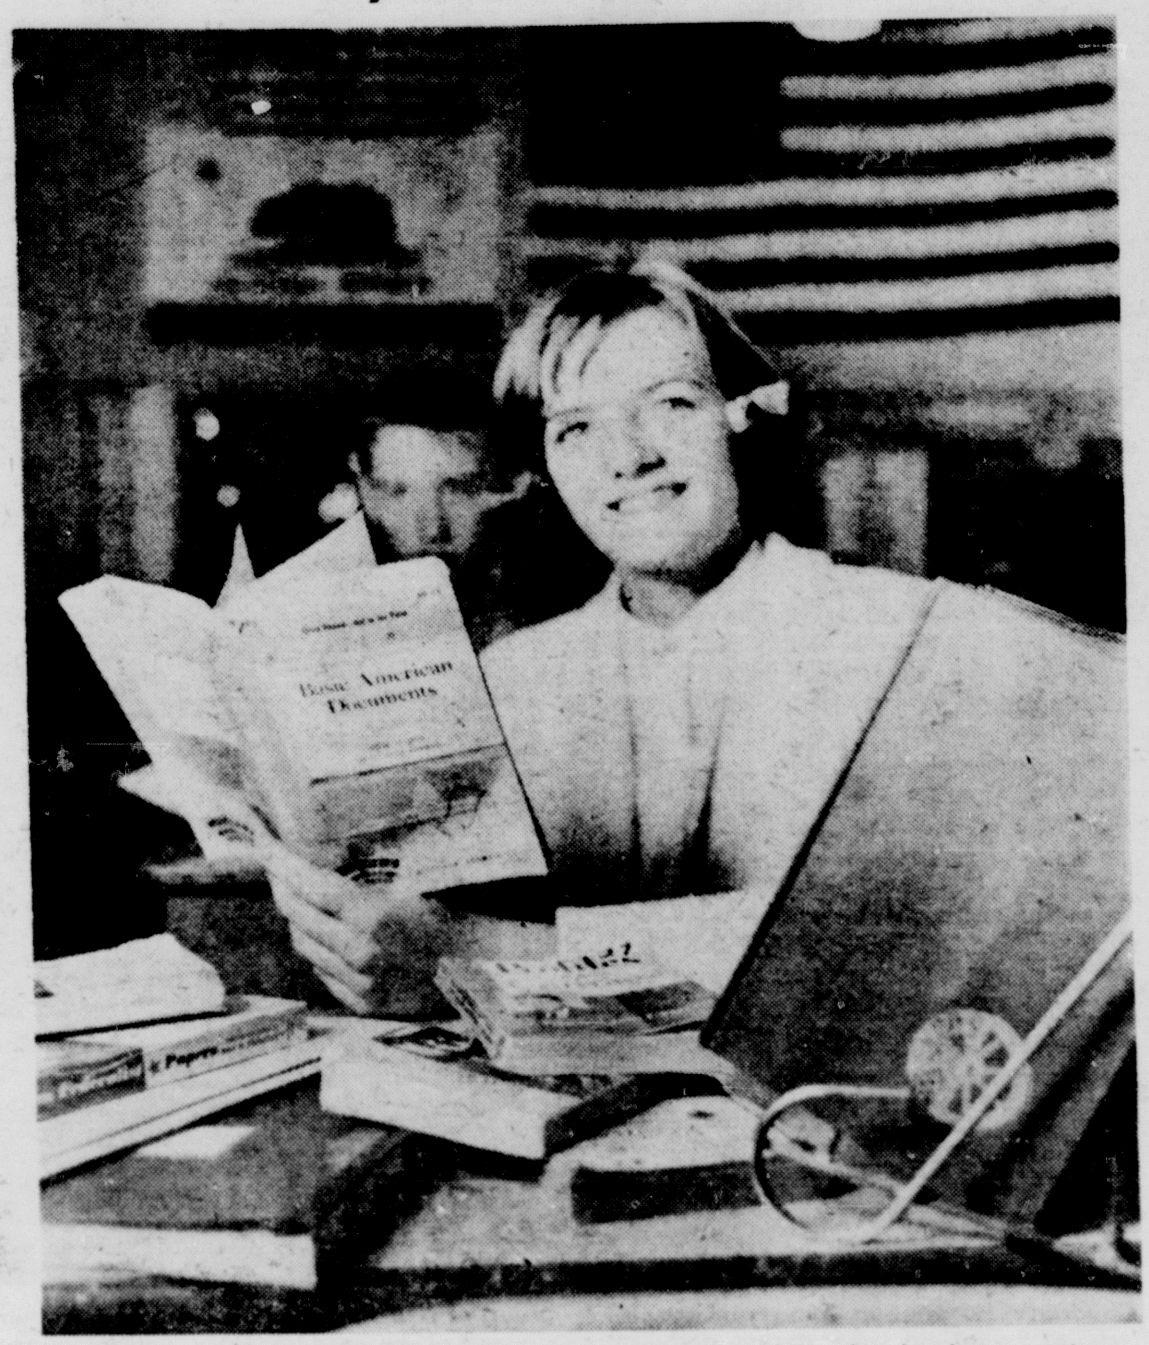

"We attempt to show how literature had a great deal to do with governmental policies and the development of the nation," Mrs. Scott says. "Through their reading, students actually see America emerging as a nation and not just a suburb of England."

As an added bonus, these eighth graders learn how to take notes, pursue research and broaden their knowledge through related reading.

GOODWIN POINTS out that the emphasis on early history shows "the beginnings of our institutions, ideals and beliefs. The acts of patriotism and our patriots are stressed. The basic documents create a better and more complete understanding of our rich heritage."

The history teacher adds that the correlated courses also "attempt to give a good solid foundation of Americanism to bring out both the good and bad events in American history so that students may be proud of the former and avoid repetition of the latter."

"We see an increased understanding and growth on the part of participating students which encourages us to continue to increase the scope and substance of our program," Mrs. Scott concludes.

EIGHTH GRADER Edith Raby at Santa Venetia School piles up some of the books she will read this school year for history and English classes based on the original texts of early American documents. The rack at right holds a complete set of "Original Narratives of Early American History," while the binder contains an anthology compiled by the Santa Venetia teachers. Paperback volumes include the likes of "Federalists Papers" and "Basic American Documents." All serve as texts for grammar, composition and sentence structure as well as history and literature.

Today, Gary Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Becker of San Rafael, is a happy, active 9-year-old, ready to lead a normal life.

Gary's prospects were far from bright a short time back.

But at Children's Hospital in San Francisco he underwent open heart surgery made possible by a heart-lung machine operated by a skilled team of doctors. Following that surgery and a recuperative period at Children's Hospital, Gary returned to his home.

GARY IS JUST one of many Marin youngsters who have had their entire lives affected—even saved—at Children's Hospital.

Thirty per cent of the in-patients at the hospital at 3700 California Street hail from outside San Francisco as nationally famous doctors bring their patients to the institution from all parts of the country, particularly in the fields of eye surgery, open heart surgery and heart catheterization.

Clinical services, too, function for residents outside as well as inside San Francisco's boundaries.

Especially vital to Marinites is the Children's Hospital Child Development Center with such clinical services as the birth defects center, brain diagnostic clinic and cerebral palsy nursery school, services not otherwise readily available to Marin youngsters. Nearly 15 per cent of the new Child Development Center patients in 1963 came from Marin County.

The Child Guidance Center is still another Children's Hospital facility from which the entire Bay Area benefits materially.

AND AS ONE of the few hospitals in the Bay Area equipped to handle communicable diseases, Children's Hospital provided care for hundreds of polio patients before vaccines curbed the terrible toll of that crippler.

Children's Hospital had its beginnings four generations ago when eight pioneering women doctors opened the Pacific Dispensary for the purpose of providing free clinical care for needy women and children of the area.

From its original one-room accommodations on Taylor Street in 1875, the clinic grew and moved several times until 1887 when a building fund enabled it to locate at the present California Street site. There it has grown to 276 beds and 44 bassinets.

The first male doctors joined the staff in 1892, but the first male adult patient was not admitted until 1955.

PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION raised funds for a pediatric wing in 1895. Two years later monies became available for a women's ward. These structures served until 1954 when an extensive new wing was built to house not only pediatric and obstetrical departments, but also new nurseries, X-ray, laboratories, and, in 1958, ultra-modern surgery.

New recovery rooms and and an intensive care unit were finished in 1959. The physical therapy department was remodeled in 1960, and a new central service department was completed the following year.

Twenty additional private rooms became available in 1962, and a separate area was reserved for patients in the adolescent age group.

Last year a radiation therapy wing housing a new cobalt teletherapy unit was added.

IN ALL THE free and part-pay out patient department consists of some 32 clinics with approximately 30,000 patient visits per year. These endeavors are supported by patient fees, hospital endowment funds and community funds. Children's Hospital receives some funds from the United Bay Area Crusade, of which Marin County is a member.

From its outset Children's Hospital has treated both women and children, but its primary distinction has been its service to children. Currently, the institution is a general hospital for men, women and children, but the emphasis remains upon service to the youngsters.

Many of the staff physicians and employees at Children's Hospital are Marin County residents. Robert C. Densmore, assistant administrator, lives in San Rafael.

MARINITES, too, take an active part in the auxiliary groups which support the hospital. There are four such groups:

1. The Auxiliary of Children's Hospital, founded in 1894 and the oldest fund-raising unit affiliated with the hospital. It has 35 active members.

2. Girls' Recreation Club, associated with the hospital for more than a decade, has 24 members, and raises funds primarily through an annual rummage sale to aid the Child Guidance Clinic.

3. Children's Hospital Service Group, formed in 1952 by wives of physicians, now has its membership open to all hospital volunteers. This group, presently with 211 members, operates the gift shops and the nursery identi-photo program.

4. And the Little Jim Club consisting of 65 women who volunteer their time and effort for work in the hospital as well as conducting an annual fund-raising project, the Mardi Gras Ball, on Shrove Tuesday of each year.

Ten members of the Little Jim Club reside in Marin County including Mrs. John J. White of Sausalito, a past president; Mrs. Richard T. Conlan of Mill Valley, last year's Mardi Gras Ball chairman; Mrs. Pieter A. deVries of Mill Valley, Mrs. Elliot Hayne of Sausalito and Mrs. Warren D. Mohr (the former Betty Bunn of San Rafael), who have been particularly active on behalf of the hospitial.

The club's name comes from "Little Jim," a 3-year-old patient back in 1895 whose case spurred a fund-raising movement for a pediatrics facility. One of the two new pediatrics wards at the hospital has been named the Little Jim Ward.

THE LITTLE JIM Club began as a group of civic-minded women who volunteered their services in that ward, and gradually expanded the scope of their activities. Sponsorship of the free occupational therapy department has been a major project.

It was to help support the therapy program that the Mardi Gras Ball and its accompanying queen contest were revived. Through 11 such annual projects, the club has raised more than $305,000 for the hospital, most of it through the efforts of the queen contestants who solicit votes from the public at 10 cents per vote. The candidate with the most votes reigns as queen of the ball.

Marin County has a representative in this year's queen competition in Mrs. Ursula McCarthy, wife of State Senator John F. McCarthy of San Rafael.

OTHER MARINITES who have competed for the title of queen at past Mardi Gras Balls include Mrs. William T. Brantman of Belvedere, Mrs. Arthur Dettner of Novato, Mrs. Woodward Melone of Novato, Mrs. Jack Wilcutt of Ross and Mrs. Fred Allen of Kentfield.

Voting for the 1964 queen will continue until 8:30 o'clock the night of the ball—next Tuesday—at which time the leading contestant will be crowned and will rule over the festivities at the Sheraton Palace Hotel. Marinites can send checks, payable to the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital, to C. Michael Shaw, Queen Votes, Crocker-Citizens Naitonal Bank, 1 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. The queen candidate to whom the votes are to be credited should be clearly marked. But regardless of the outcome of the queen competition, it will be the Little Jims and Janes who will be the ultimate victors.

IN THE LITTLE JIM WARD of Children's Hospital, Stewart McNab, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James McNab of Ross, receives the attention of nurse Ann Barrett of Sausalito. Both the out and in-patient facilities of the hospital have provided services to many Marinites, and especially the children of the county.

THE PLAYROOM in the Little Jim Ward of Children's Hospital is a popular spot with the young, ambulatory patients. Stewart McNab, 9, center, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McNab of Ross, relates some of his hospital experiences to Betsy Bogardus, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bogardus of Mill Valley, her brother Andy, 4, and Bobby Spencer, 4, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer of Mill Valley.

THE BUILDING AT El Portal and Bridgeway has been a Sausalito landmark for more than half a century. But it had sunk to rooming house stature until F. Bruce Bernhard took it over a year ago. Now the upstairs houses the 16-room Sausalito Hotel, a treasure house of antique furnishings and a popular spot with honeymooners. (Independent-Journal photo)

Sausalito's Honeymoon Hotel

Its Antique Furnishings Lend It Special Charm

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Honeymooners have discovered Sausalito's small hotel with the big furniture.

The turreted, newly-refurbished Sausalito Hotel has much of the charm sought by the newlywed. And it has some of the romantic aspects of its counterpart in Spain.

CONTINENTAL breakfasts, decor from the day of Queen Victoria and rooms with a view of a tiny plaza with a splashing fountain.

Since it was built in about 1912 when the ferries docked nearby, the 16-room building has always been an hotel. But, until taken over a year ago by F. Bruce Bernhard of Sausalito, it had lapsed into more of a run-down rooming house.

"Now," according to Bernhard, "we get quite a few honeymooners. They get married at the Sausalito Presbyterian Church, have a reception at the Alta Mira and then have a honeymoon in the Queen Victoria suite and then . . . go back to their tract house and Danish modern."

EVEN IF ONE is not on a honeymoon, Bernhard thinks his hotel can be adventurous. "Where," he asks, "can you sleep all night in a General Grant bed which is nine feet eight inches tall at the headboard?"

"We got the idea for a Victorian hotel," he continued, "because we admired this furniture. I'm first generation, but my wife can trace her family back to Peter Stuyvesant."

He says that he and his wife, Anne, spent about four months looking for the furniture. They got most of it in Santa Rosa, Sacramento and Stockton — Sacramento because of the redevelopment there.

"WE HAD some good estates to visit in Santa Rosa," Bernhard says. "We got antique tooth brush and glass-holders and soap dishes from old houses in the Mother Lode country.

"Two Christmases ago we found a bed which had been in the family for six generations in the attic of my wife's great aunt's house in the Midwest. We shipped it out and put it in the hotel."

"Most of the stuff is real big," he declares. "The ceilings are 10 feet."

Bernhard says he and his wife also enjoyed shopping for pictures and have looked at several thousand and purchased 50 to 60. "We never found one with the back intact. You know people used to keep money in behind."

THE GENERAL GRANT set was formerly in the Crocker Estate at Cloverdale and is made of rosewood or walnut, Bernhard says.

"This is the kind the rich people used to have. The poor people had them made in pine, painted and with filigree roses."

"You see them in museums," says the hotelier who is also in the construction business, "but what average person ever gets the opportunity to sleep in a bed like that? This thing is monstrous. You wouldn't want it in your house and yet, it is a heck of a lot of fun to sleep in it overnight."

WALLY LANDESEN is the hotel manager and he also manages the Del Monte Hotel, which Bernhard also owns, at 705 Bridgeway.

The Lithuanian-born manager speaks five languages—Russian, English, French, Chinese and Japanese—in addition to his native tongue.

He says that many persons who return to the hotel ask for a certain room by name, one that they had before. The rooms are named after Queen Victoria, her consort, Prince Albert, and their youngsters with three additional names picked at random.

The Queen Victoria, No. 3, is the bridal suite. It has a fireplace, the huge bed and the room is "tucked away at the end of the hall."

THE OTHER rooms are Prince Albert, Marquess of Queensberry, Prince of Wales, Edward VII, Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louise, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, Prince Beatrice, Lady Hastings and Lord Peel.

All the rooms have baths

THE GENERAL GRANT BED of rosewood and walnut is the most valuable piece of furniture in the Sausalito Hotel. It came from the Crocker Estate at Cloverdale. It is a copy of a bed in the Ulysses S. Grant home — thus the name.

WHILE THE GRANT BED at the top of the page represents the furniture of the wealthy of another era, the poorer people had to settle for pine. But handpainting and trim such as that seen on the one above made them handsome additions to the home. And now such a bed, in good shape, is often more valuable than the massive, elaborately ornate beds in which the rich slept.

THIS LARGE DRESSER stands in one of the rooms of the Sausalito Hotel as mute testimony of the skill of the woodworking craftsmen of earlier generations. Its marble tops and hardwood have withstood the ravages of time, virtually without effect.

THE VIEW FROM THE Queen Victoria Room of the Sausalito Hotel enhances the continental appeal the establishment holds for its guests. The visitor can look down upon Sausalito's colorful Bridgeway with its shops, theaters and plaza, or onto the yacht harbor crammed with boats. Mrs. Gaile Osborne is seen here enjoying that vista. and most rooms are set up as two-room suites, one which may be used as a sitting room, the other as a sleeping room.

"We take children and reasonable pets," says the owner.

It's Stocked With Antique Furnishings

INTERIORS, complete with period wallpaper, dressers, chairs, tables and love seats, were done by Lon Foster, A.I.D. of Sausalito.

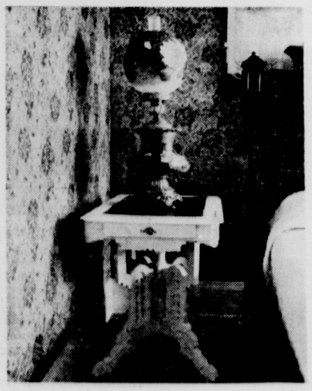

"For the most part all baths have the old leg-type tubs," Bernhard relates, "mainly because of the size of them. They are big. They are tubs you can fit two people into comfortably."

"We have maid service," he continues, "and in the morning we serve a continental breakfast—coffee, sweet rolls and fruit juice—in the foyer at the top of the stairs."

Though Bernhard denies the friendly rumor that he started the hotel so that he and his wife would have a place to put extra antique furniture, he admits that it is handy to own a hotel when friends or relatives are in town. "We use this as a guest house," he says.

BERNHARD explained that his patrons are tourists, business men and, to quite an extent, people visiting Sausalitans. "Summer, we're more crowded, and in winter, things drop off," he notes.

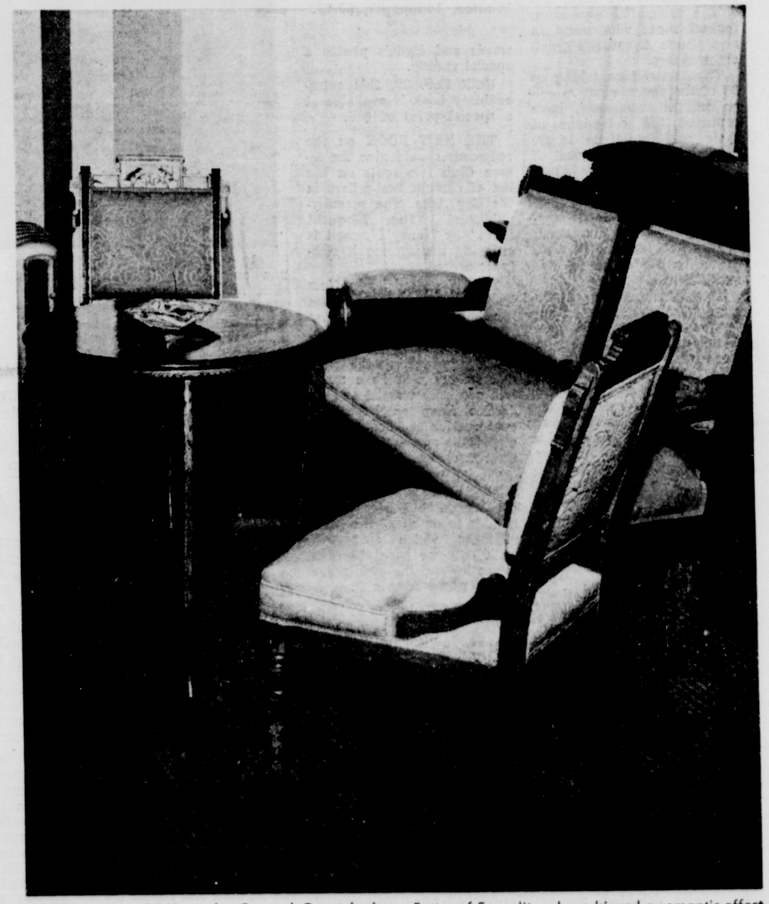

"We get honeymooners all year around," says Bernhard.

THE LAMP is not an antique, but a newly-made replica of one. The Queen Anne table and the carved rosewood bedstead at right are antiques, however, the latter coming from an old Santa Rosa estate.

YOU DON'T SEE too many of these old leg-type bathtubs in hotels any longer, but The Sausalito Hotel has several of them. And they offer the hotel guests one major advantage—they are big and comfortable.

IN THE SAME ROOM as the General Grant bed is this Victorian furniture collected by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bernhard from many sources. The interior decoration of the hotel was done by Lon Foster of Sausalito who achieved a romantic effect that has special appeal to honeymooners. Tourists, businessmen and guests of Sausalitans are also frequent patrons of the hotel.

Story Of Coastal Big Tree

By DON KEOWN

It would take a magnificent book to match the grandeur of California's towering coastal redwoods. Writer Francois Leydet and photographer Phillip Hyde have come as close as human limitations will permit in their remarkable "The Last Redwoods," published by the Sierra Club.

It is a warning and an appeal, and, if the warning and appeal go unheeded, a lasting record of what mankind has lost through indifference and greed.

Leydet and Hyde tell us—and show us—that the battle to preserve the big trees is still unwon, and that we must act soon if it is ever to be won.

And if humanity's preoccupation with lesser things causes it to let the few surviving great redwoods succumb to time and man-made pressures, the book will at least serve as a tragic reminder of what we have forfeited—a poor substitute for the real thing, to be sure, but still a treasured possession for all those who stand in awe of one of nature's greatest wonders.

The illustrations, taking up 80 of the pages, eight in color and all varnished, have captured the splendour of their subjects. Hyde is responsible for virtually all of them, but a few by Ansel Adams and from other sources have been included.

The text by Leydet is moving and forceful with a lyrical quality that reflects his dedication to the cause he has undertaken.

He tells the story of the great trees, examines the impact mankind has had upon them, and pays tribute to those who have fought the fight to preserve them. But he dispells the myth that the redwood is now safe, and attempts to shake us from our self-satisfaction with the proof that the peril of their final destruction is dire and near. And he offers concrete suggestions as to how those few remaining remnants of the once mighty groves might yet be spared and made truly and finally safe for future generations.

The urgency behind their cause give both Leydet's words and Hyde's photos a special vitality.

Until Feb. 29, this extraordinary book is available at a special price of $15.

CALIFORNIA'S coastal big trees are the subjects of the new Sierra Club book, "The Last Redwoods," with text by Francois Leydet and photos by Philip Hyde. The two Hyde pictures seen here are from the book. At top, sun and fog and foliage in the Prairie Creek State Park. At left, the edge of a redwood grove at Bull Creek Flat.

THE LAST REDWOODS by Philip Hyde and Francois Leydet, Sierra Club, 127 10-by-13½-inch pages, $17.50.

KILLING TIME by Joseph F. Hannan, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 164 pages, $3.95.

THE NEW BOOK on the redwoods should give the Sierra Club two spots on the list of current best-sellers in the Bay Area. The recently-published "The Eloquent Light" by Nancy Newhall is enjoying the success it richly deserves.

That king-sized book offers its purchasers a double treat for their $20—a text by Miss Newhall that provides not only a biography of Adams but also insight into the traits and factors that have made him a sensitive artist and effective force on behalf of conservation and beauty, plus a portfolio of some of Adams' most marvelous work.

The book is not only a reminder of the creative genius of Adams, but also a reminder to us all of the magnificence which surrounds us if only we have the eyes to see it—and the good sense not to waste or mar it.

HUMORIST Joseph F. Hannan enjoyed a big success with his "Never Tease a Dinosaur," his witty presentation of the trials and tribulations of a male school teacher. Now he is back with "Killing Time," dedicated to the premise that work is going out of style and idleness becoming more and more the fashion of our times.

Hannan looks into such solutions to the "time on your hands" problem as community and youth service, cultural pursuits, hobbies, do-it-yourself, participant and spectator sports, television, reading, etc. always with tongue in cheek. The examination of Little League baseball is especially hilarious.

The most successful social satire must blend perfectly humor and comment. Hannan, however, emphasizes the former at the expense of the latter. True, he does point a finger at many of our foibles. But such observations can be overlooked in the enjoyment of his rapid-fire and clever sallies.

So overpowering is the Hannan wit that it is best taken in small doses, a couple of chapters at a time. Hannan himself has provided few let-ups during which you can sit back and reflect upon his precepts. You will have to provide your own pauses.

But funny, Hannan is. Fellow humorist H. Allen Smith has said of him: "He is fast becoming one of my favorite authors . . ." Just so Hannan doesn't lose sight of the fact that his talents can be used to stimulate and reform as well as to entertain.

TRUSTEES OF the James D. Phelan Awards in Literature and Art have again announced the offering of $1,000 prizes in each of three fields of literature—the novel, drama and non-fictional prose.

The 1964 competition opened Jan. 1. Applicants must be native born Californians between the ages of 20 and 40, and they must make application on a special form available from the Phelan Awards office, 814 Grant Building, San Francisco.

The awards are made annually, alternating between literature and painting, according to terms of a bequest by the late Sen. James D. Phelan.

Sleuths & Suspense

ONLY THE RICH DIE YOUNG by Hugh Pentecost, Dodd, Mead and Co., 108 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Veteran mystery writer Hugh Pentecost has his best in some time in his just-published "Only the Rich Die Young."

An aging but still idolized actor of the John Barrymore type, with drinking, money and women problems, but still an idealist, is his central figure, and presented in admirable depth. This interesting figure becomes the storm center around whom violence, including two murders, boils. A seemingly unequal struggle between the romantic thespian and a sadistic and powerful millionaire develops as the tension increases.

Pentecost hurts his novel with a climactic nightclub scene in which he seems to have been carried away to the far-fetched after maintaining a high climate of believability throughout his book. Nevertheless, it is a gripping, exciting and human story.

The Vitality And Virility Of A Documentary Artist

FREDERIC REMINGTON'S OWN OUTDOORS edited by Douglas Allen, Dial Press, 190 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"Frederic Remington's Own Outdoors" is a companion book to the previously published "Frederic Remington's Own West" and again demonstrates the virility and vitality of the work of the great western documentary artist.

The new book contains Remington sketches and paintings (95 in all) and articles on the sporting scene. Most were written and drawn for magazine publication although some appear here on the printed page for the first time. And most deal with the outdoor sports hunting and fishing, with which Remington would be expected to have had a familiarity and an affection.

Also well represented is another subject which is naturally associated with Remington—horses. Show horses, trotting horses, thoroughbred racing horses, jumping horses, polo ponies, cow ponies, riding horses, hunting horses, they are all there.

Less expected are the football sketches, but Remington was a member of the Yale varsity. And his work captures the massed violence of early-day power football superbly.

An added bonanza is the inclusion of some photographs of Remington himself in the outdoors.

But the real attraction are his drawings and paintings. And they show undeniably that Remington had no peer in capturing the dynamic action and excitement of an era and area that provided fitting subjects for his great talents.

Our Reviewers And The New Reading

Aid And The Chinese

CHINA AND THE HELPING HAND, 1937-1945, by Arthur N. Young, Harvard University Press, 502 pages, $10. Reviewed by Randall Gould.

Marin County Far Easterners, of whom there must be scores, are almost without exception familiar with Dr. Arthur N. Young, who went to China with the Kemmerer monetary mission in 1929 and remained there 19 years as a financial adviser to the Chinese government until his resignation in 1947 due to ill health.

No wonder his health declined! He served in Nanking, at the interim wartime capital of Hankow and finally in remote Chungking, where he showed his acuteness by locating in a missionary establishment serving the best food in town. His invitations were at a premium.

Doctor Young was always a close-mouthed man somewhat typical of the State Department which he had served for some years previously. When I played squash rackets with him he would bring a briefcase onto the court and put it against the tin baseboard as a security measure.

Now, with permission of the Chinese government, he has revealed a great deal about what he and others were doing in their effort to keep China afloat during the years of early Sino-Japanese conflict and World War II.

Not only does he dig into his own recollection and documents to tell how he worked in China and Washington to get help for China—which he rightly wished to be of a sort to help China to help herself—but he has had access to such other valuable material as part of the Morgenthau diaries. There is a lot of spice in all this, inevitable where such figures as "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell come into the picture. And it is interesting to learn that so different a man as Arthur Young shared Stilwell's conviction that merely to dump foreign aid into China's open mouth was not enough by a long shot.

"Strings on aid are right in principle," says Young in concurring basically with the Stilwell view. But he goes on:

"They can help an aided country to do what it should for its own good. But use of strings is a delicate matter. It is far from easy for an aiding government to change greatly the internal policies of a country that is receiving aid.

"Nevertheless, both China and the United States would have gained, I believe, had the United States bargained more during the Pacific war about both financial and military aid."

Here we come to the crux of Young's own delicate position, for after all he was working for the Chinese government though at all times a loyal American.

Of perhaps even greater interest should be a second book on which Young has been working, to deal with China's wartime finance. Money not only makes the mare go but is far more determinative of events than any amount of politics in a country such as China—the good-humor and courage of whose people never should blind one to the fact that, mostly, they live "lives of quiet desperation."

Sprightly Folklore

LOST BENEATH THE FEATHER by Bill Talbitzer, self - published illustrated booklet, 56 pages, $1.50. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

Folklore of the Feather River region with emphasis on the colorful characters of yesteryear is presented in a sprightly manner by Talbitzer, an Oroville newspaperman.

Tales, major and minor, are told of the area to be covered beneath a reservoir formed by the Oroville Dam. Talbitzer tells his history in a lively manner that captures the spirit of the Gold Rush Days and the men who generated it . . . Major Frank McLaughlin, James P. Beckwourth, Judge Moses Bean.

Wisely, Talbitzer mixes humor and romance with his tales of adventure, creating the flavor of life as it was at all levels.

All in all, an easy way to digest a bit of California history with appropriate illustrations. The book is available in San Rafael at the World Book and News Store on Fourth Street.

Early Gide

URIEN'S VOYAGE by Andre Gide, Philosophical Library, 94 pages, $3.75. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

First published in 1893, Gide's semi-autobiographical novel is of interest today as a transitional and prophetic work early in the career of the Nobel Prize winner who died in 1951 at the age of 82.

As the fourth volume of some 50 books Gide was to write, it chronicles the experiences and events that have the mark of "the irreconcilable tendencies that were to complicate his life," points out the introduction by Wade Baskin, chairman of the foreign language department at Arkansas State Teachers College. Baskin also did the translation from the French, and this is the first publication of the short dream-like work in English.

In it Gide's voyage through a bitter ocean glimmering with implication and symbolism, a journey to flee the darkness of uncertainty and to attempt to separate the eternal from the transistory, as illustrated by Urien's denouncing the Crew's tendency to confuse the illusory "movement" of islands with the gliding past of the ship . . . The symbolist tenets at which Gide hints in this dream-like voyage he makes up more strongly in his "Narcissus," published five years earlier, and as Baskin points out, the interest in "Urien's Voyage" is that this early allegory contains the elements that were to motivate the acclaimed works of his maturity.

A WINTRY SCENE of early-day traffic braving a blizzard in the Times Square of the early 1900s is from the Doubleday-published book, "My Years With General Motors" by Alfred P. On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

The noted innovator on the bass, composer, leader and angry man of jazz—Charlie Mingus — operates his own record company, Debut.

Charlie admits, however, that he is not a business man and so has turned over many of this label's best tapes to the Fantasy jazz label, which has repackaged and re-released a large series of them. The Fantasy brothers are not businessmen either, but they happen to have two records high on the pop tune charts, a big star in pianist Vince Guaraldi, and an excellent catalog of fine modern jazz featuring such stand-bys as Dave Brubeck and Cal Tjader.

Herewith a sampling of the latest:

FOUR TROMBONES VOL. 2—J. J. Johnson, Kai Winding, Willie Dennis, Benny Green, with Art Taylor, Charles Mingus and John Lewis—Fantasy 6008:

Listeners will have a real kick trying to identify the four trombonists by their sound alone (a key is given for each of the four tunes on the lp). John Lewis of the MJQ is at the piano and Art Taylor on drums.

MY LITTLE CELLO—Oscar Pettiford, cello and bass — Fantasy 6010:

The highly regarded musician, who joined the emigre American Negro jazzmen who have taken up residence in Europe, died in 1960 in Denmark. This lp demonstrated his talent as a composer of some beautiful items, including one locally inspired and titled "Tamalpais."

Julius Watkins' French horn is an important part of the instrumental fabric. Two of the tracks are with a Danish vibes player and pianist, showing the completely international quality of U.S. jazz.

BIRD ON 52ND STREET—Charlie Parker, alto sax; Miles Davis, trumpet; Duke Jordan, piano; Tommy Potter, bass; Max Roach, drums—Fantasy 6011:

Every available and unavailable recording of Charlie (Bird) Parker has been revived in the tremendous surge of interest in this jazz figure.

These 15 tracks and fragments certainly qualify for release on musical interest, but the sound — ow! They were taped on a beat-up recorder in 1948 only for the benefit of a few of Bird's fans and feature Max Roach, bigger than life, with Bird off in the corner somewhere and Miles usually missing altogether. For aficianados only!

Fantasy's liner notes proclaim truthfully: "This is not a high fidelity album." To quote one of Bird's tunes on the lp: "Shaw 'Nuff."

SVINGET 14/Brew Moore, tenor sax—Fantasy 6013:

"Svinget 14" was Moore's address in Copenhagen during his recent sojourn in Europe.

Five Scandinavian jazzmen and one U.S. expatriate assist him in this terrific lp. His tenor is complemented by a baritone here, alto there, and vibes still elsewhere. Bent Axen is the standout pianist on all tracks.

The only standard is "You Stepped Out of A Dream;" three of the originals have Danish titles but for some inexplicable reason they don't sound very Danish!

CECIL TAYLOR LIVE AT THE CAFE MONTMARTRE—Fantasy 6014:

Wow! And I thought Ornette Coleman was far out!

Did this latest offering from the avant-garde jazz pianist Taylor really open my eyes! . . . and eventually close my ears. Guess I haven't progressed this far just yet.

Lenny Tristano, Thelonious Monk, si . . . Cecil no. Listen if ya' dare

ESSEN JAZZ FESTIVAL ALL-STARS: Oscar Pettiford, Bud Powell, Kenny Clarke, Coleman Hawkins — Fantasy 6015:

Some of the biggest impresarios of jazz in the world are the West German radio stations. This festival is sponsored by one of them, and at it in 1960 four of the almost legendary jazz leaders were taped.

One of them is now dead (Pettiford) and another failing noticeably (Powell). Drummer Kenny Clarke is headquartered in Paris and remains leader on his axes. "Hawk" seems to fit in anywhere, in any context, and never grows old, musically or mentally.

Long tracks like "Stuffy" and "Blues in the Closet," give the quartet a chance to really dig in. This one's a classic all the way around.

Stereo Hi-Fi

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

FM reception and especially FM Stereo reception is causing considerable difficulty for some listeners in Marin. One of the beauties of our Marvelous Marin is its mountainous terrain. Unfortunately, this mountainous terrain is the major cause of the FM reception problems.

FM signals are received on a line-of-sight direction the same as are the TV signals. This line-of-sight limits reception generally to a 50 to 90 mile radius from the transmitter. If, however, there are hills or other very large obstacles between your antenna and the FM transmitter location, your reception may be extremely poor even though you are only 20 or 30 miles away from the station. In areas such as above where the receiving antennas are shaded from the signal, the reception will be quite noisy and not very listenable even on monaural FM. The only solution for these areas is for the users to purchase very sensitive FM tuners or receivers, and install elaborate amplified antenna systems. If the signal is extremely weak, even the sensitive tuner and antenna system may not be enough to give results.

Probably the most frequent cause of trouble in Marin County is multipath reception. Because of our hills, there are many locations where the signal arrives at the antenna two or three times. The main signal travels directly from the FM transmitter to the receiving antenna. A second path for the signal may be from the FM transmitter to a hill where it is reflected in such a direction as to arrive at the same receiving antenna. This second signal has to travel farther, therefore, it will arrive at the receiving antenna a little later than the direct signal. A third signal path reflected from another hill or tall structure may arrive even later. On a TV screen these late arrivals show up as ghosts, one ghost for each late arrival. On FM these multipath reflections cause distortion to the sound. The sound is fuzzy and not clear. The FM multiplex unit that is fed multipath signals cannot properly unscramble the program into a left and right sound track, so the sound is garbled. In some cases, a multi-element yagi type FM antenna pointing in the direction of the stations will help eliminate these extra reflected signals, if they are not arriving from the same direction as the main signal. If the reflected and main signals are from the same general direction, the only solution is to move, or to be satisfied with those FM stations that are received clearly.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

PARTING

Glasses of wine,
a quiet hour or two together and we gently brush aside cobwebs along trails of autumns past, troubled only by thoughts that these fleeting moments are falling leaves softly covering footprints worn shapeless by time.
So much to say, so much to recall hearts cannot hold the words, tongues swell in confusion and our reveries wander off onto barren pathways, lost.
We fill our glasses
again and again, but thoughts of parting settle like dust on the wine.

GREENBRAE — WALTER TREMAIN

WHO SHALL BE NAMELESS

What town this splintered place
Where neons blink miasma?
Whose face this mask from
Some forgotten mardi gras—
Floating leper white beneath
These ersatz suns?
Hair like nettles under snow
Spells treason to her lacquered mouth.
Eyes on pivots stare three ways
Behind tryptych of dirty glass.
Curtains wither, greyer still
Than faded sofa back.
She waits a day already gone,
This witness to the harlot past—
Who shall be nameless.

A NEW western hero appears on the television scene this coming week when the "Destry" series bows in with John Gavin in the title role. It will be seen Friday at 7:30 p.m. over KGO-TV.

PLANS FOR AN UPCOMING "Dick Stewart Show" on KGO-TV are discussed by host Stewart, a former San Rafael resident, and his pretty vocalist, Barbara Spann of Sausalito. The two appear regularly together on the afternoon musical variety program Monday through Friday starting at 1:30 o'clock on Channel 7.

GET QUEEN-SIZE BEAUTYREST COMFORT and Keep Your Favorite Old Bed

Free BED-STRETCHERS for your old bed with each Beautyrest Queen-Size Set. Makes your present bed 6″ wider and 5″ longer...and much, much more comfortable!

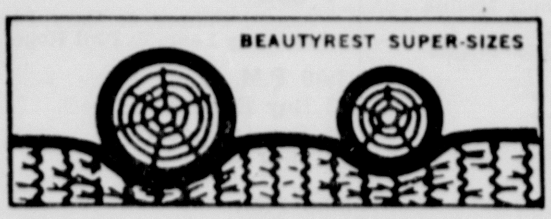

Choose Quilted or Tufted, Normal Firm or Extra Firm
Set of mattress and matching boxspring $199.50

NO OTHER MATTRESS IS MADE LIKE BEAUTYREST, MADE ONLY BY SIMMONS

ORDINARY SUPER SIZES. Ordinary mattresses—no matter how big—have springs wired together that sag together. A heavy husband pulls springs down causing uncomfortable rolling together. Each time he moves, her springs move, too. Poor sleep!

BEAUTYREST SUPER SIZES. Beautyrest springs are separate—independent. Each sleeper has his own springs and those in between aren't affected. Both sleepers get individual body-fitting support... single bed comfort in their double bed. Beautyrest springs never, never sag.

Uncrowded Luxury...that's BEAUTYREST QUEEN-SIZE

You'd never dream sleep could be so wonderful until you've slept in the spacious comfort of a Beautyrest Queen-Size. With its 6 inches of extra width, 5 inches of extra length and that famous Beautyrest independent coil construction, you have the perfect combination for new-found sleeping comfort. And we make it easier for you to enjoy this stretch-out luxury by including with your purchase of a Beautyrest Queen-Size mattress-boxspring set Simmons new BED-STRETCHER rails that make your present bed longer and wider. Or, if you prefer, you may have free of cost a steel frame with casters. So come in today for your Queen-Size Beautyrest.

Don't forget . . .

A staff of qualified decorators is always at your disposal. No charge for this service, of course.

NOVATO SQUARE DANCE Club members Mrs. Frank Thorn and Grant Nelson lead with the two step at the regular club meeting night and workshop Thursday in the IDESI Hall, Novato. Both square and round dancing are taught during the evening. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

DISPLAYING THE official dress for the distaff side is this square dancer in a whirl. The full skirted dresses of the women complement the shirts worn by the men. Other aspects of the costumes are petticoats and pantaloons for the gals and Western shirts and cowboy boots for the men. The Novato Square Dance Club is now marking its 12th year. Its beginnings are traced to a young people's group in the Northern Marin Presbyterian church.

'Gents Promenade With Right Hand Girl'

By PATRICIA ZINN

Preserving the fun and good fellowship in our American heritage which in Grandma's day was the "roof raising" or the "husking bee" are 10 clubs in Marin dedicated to the dance.

In these circles it is "in" to be a round or a square.

MANY OF Marin's square and round dance clubs are an offshoot from the church socials of yesteryear. So it is with the Novato Square Dance Club whose charter members belonged to a young people's group at the Presbyterian church in Novato. The club had its beginning in 1953 with Paul Grimes as caller. Later, with Bill Owen as caller, the four couples formed the "square" and danced in the garage of the Bob Blackwell home in Novato. The club now meets every Thursday night at the IDESI Hall in Novato with Bill Owen as caller.

Often referred to as the "friendliest people in the world," the square dancers are also most colorful as they flash by in promenade with full skirts whirling and cowboy boots gleaming.

THE NOVATO group, led by president Leroy Reynolds, also has picnics, Saturday party nights, beginners' classes and a March of Dimes dance.

SQUARE DANCING is defined as movement to music. Thus after one learning the 26 basic movements in a beginner's class, the "lingo" of the caller—"girls roll out a right face whirl, Gents promenade with the right hand girl"—is easy to understand.

Along with their colorful dress, square dancers also wear whimsical "fun" club badges which they earn for doing things such as the Owl badge for dancing after midnight, or the Dolphin, for square dancing in the surf.

—AND the dancers say its relaxing.

TWO COUPLES DO the square-thru in this square dance sequence. A beginners' course is sponsored periodically by the dance club. Among other activities of the group are Saturday night dance parties, picnics, and the March of Dimes benefit.

PROUDLY PUTTING up the name of Novato club caller Bill Owen is Jean Bastas who wears "fun club badges" which club members earn. Jean's depict recognition for dancing in the surf, on the sand, in a public place and the "Diehard" badge for dancing five nights in a row.
